MAY ALLOW ARMS TO GO TO MEXICO FROM THE STATES

President Wilson and Members of Congress Are Considering This as Next Step in Handling the Situation

LOOKS LIKE A MOVE IN FAVOR OF REBELS

They Have Repeatedly Claimed Arms Are All They Need to End Warfare by Winning Quick Victory

WASHINGTON, July 23.—Repeal of the neutrality proclamation prohibiting the exportation of arms to Mexico is being considered by the administration as the next step in the Mexican situation. Conferences between President Wilson and congressional leaders were planned today for a discussion of the proposal, to which many leaders have given their approval.

While official statements were lacking today as to what support President Wilson had given to the project, a partial canvas of the house and senate foreign affairs committees led those interested in the move to believe that the prohibition against the shipment of arms could be repealed with little delay.

"LET 'EM FIGHT IT OUT."

It is understood to be the belief of administration officials that should free exportation of arms be permitted to all factions in Mexico, the present situation might adjust itself. The constitutionalists repeatedly have claimed that lack of arms is their only bar to quick victory.

The repeal is proposed on the ground that there is no recognized government in Mexico and that when the prohibition was enacted a regularly constituted government, recognized officially by the United States, was in existence.

Mexicans Hold American For Ransom, Says Report

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, July 23.—Acting Secretary Roosevelt of the navy today called upon Rear Admiral Cowles at Guaymas to investigate the report that Thomas Hind, assistant general superintendent of the Southern Pacific railroad in Mexico, is held for ransom by Mexican federals there. The state department was without information on the matter.

The supply ship Buffalo, which sailed from Guaymas to Topolobampo, has reported conditions quiet there. The battleship Louisiana, which went to Tuxpan, has returned to Vera Cruz. This latter movement leads navy department officials to conclude that a measure of order has been restored at Tuxpan, relieving Americans of the danger they were in when the battleship was sent there under rush orders.

State department reports today stated that while the activities of American cowboys at Madera had strained relations at that place, there was said to be little danger except to the persons responsible for the killing of two of "El Mocho's" bandits. General Pancho Villa, of the constitutionalist forces, is reported to be taking an active interest in the safety of Americans at Madera, the federals having no force in the vicinity.

Suspension of communication between Saltillo and Monterey and Torreon is reported from Saltillo with no communication over the National railway to the south.

American's Bible Pages Used to Make Cigarettes

(By Associated Press.)

DALLAS, Tex., July 23.—How some of his Mexican captors used his Bible for cigarette papers was told by L. L. Davis, of Dallas, who reached home last night after being a prisoner of constitutionalists in Mexico from May 12 until July 19. Davis said there were only a few chapters left in the book when he was released. He said his captors at times had little to eat themselves, but always shared equally with him. He was not harmed, but was released without paying a cent, on demands by American consular authorities.

Admiral Beatty Ordered To Report to Washington

(By Associated Press.)

NEWPORT, R. I., July 23.—Rear Admiral Frank E. Beatley, commander of the Fourth division of the Atlantic fleet today received orders to report at Washington.

The admiral arrived here Monday with the flagship Minnesota from Vera Cruz, Mexico, where he had been stationed for more than two months. It is understood that administration officials wish to consult him regarding conditions in Mexico.

Discussion of Mexico Not Resumed in Senate

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, July 23.—Discussion of Mexican affairs was not continued in the senate today. Senator Fall's resolution for protection of Americans in the southern republic had gone to the calendar, and Fall did not attempt to renew his request for action upon it.

No British Battleship Requested in Mexico

(By Associated Press.)

LONDON, July 23.—The foreign office has heard of no British consul in Mexico requesting the services of a battleship, according to Francis Dyke Acland, under secretary of foreign affairs, in reply to a question in the house of commons today. He said the foreign office cabled to inquire about the rumor.

FIRE'S DEATH LIST CONTINUES TO GROW AS RUINS ARE RAKED

Six of Those Who Perished at Binghamton Identified, but Many Bodies Charred Beyond Recognition

EXACT NUMBER OF DEAD MAY NEVER BE KNOWN

Girls Thought Alarm Meant Only "Play" Fire, and Many Slowly Walked to Their Death

(By Associated Press.)

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., July 23.—The exact number of persons who perished in the fire in the Binghamton Clothing company's overall factory yesterday may never be known. The list of employes is in the ruins. Only a half dozen of the bodies recovered have been identified. A careful estimate today places the number of those in the building at the time the fire started at 111. Of these only fifty-three are known to have been saved. Six dead have been identified.

Fifteen bodies, charred beyond recognition, are at the morgue; seven injured are in the hospitals; forty-six, several slightly injured, are safe at their homes. Eleven have been reported by relatives as missing, and twenty-six others are unaccounted for.

Mrs. Ida Prentiss, who suffered terrible burns about the head, died today, and Mrs. Mary Benny, another of the injured, is not expected to recover.

City physicians estimated the death toll at fifty, but admit it may reach sixty. Bodies of several girls lost in the center of the building may never be found.

Crowds gathered about the scene of the disaster today and silently viewed the men at work in the debris. Charred bits of human flesh were picked up here and there. At noon a body was recovered, burned beyond recognition.

District Attorney Meager announced that a thorough investigation would be made to ascertain the cause of the accident.

ONE FUNERAL FOR UNIDENTIFIED.

As many of the bodies are unrecognizable, a public funeral will be conducted by the city, and the unknown dead will be buried in a plot upon which a shaft will be erected.

Frank S. Ash, of Binghamton, an inspector for the state labor department, said today the fire escapes on the building were of a type approved by the state regulations.

DEAD AND MISSING.

A revised list of the dead and missing reported up to noon was as follows:

MARY PRIOR, Wilkesbarre, Pa.
JOHN E. SCHOEMAKER, Philadelphia.
MARGUERETA DIAMOND.
MRS. THOMAS DORAN.
IDA GOLDEN.
NELLIE GLEASON.
MRS. ANNA GLEASON.
LOUISE HARTMAN.
LENA KENNEDY.
LOUISE MENGELPF.
CATHERINE SULLIVAN.
MRS. FILLMORE.
LOUISE HARTWELL.
MARY SMITH.
NELLIE CONNERS.
MRS. IDA PRENTISS.
SIDNEY DUMORICK.
BESSIE RAY.
MARY SULLIVAN.
MISS GREEGAN.
CATHERINE CROW.
JOHN SCHERMERHORN.
HATTIE FREEMAN.
HELEN WESTLER.
MRS. SARAH DORAN.
Miss BUTTON.
MRS. T. R. LAKEY.

The injured include:

Esther Raskin.
Mrs. May Leighton.
Ruth Cratty.
Edna Crotty.
Mrs. Mary Bennett.
Charles Contesse.
Mrs. Ida Houghtaling.
Jared Orr.
Mrs. Ida Prentice.
Mrs. Margaret Quick.

The list of the 134 employes of the company who were on the pay roll Saturday, some of whom were on vacation, is in the safe under the ruins, making the task of compiling the list of dead a difficult one.

FINANCIAL LOSS $200,000.

The loss by fire and water to the buildings and stock of five concerns is estimated at more than $200,000, largely covered by insurance.

The structure built about twenty years ago, was badly damaged, but the walls were saved. A temporary office has been established in a nearby garage.

The loss of the Binghamton Clothing company was estimated at about $40,000, all covered by insurance. This does not include the building, which was rented.

The heavy loss of life is believed to have been largely due to the fact that the employes, believing that the alarm was intended for a fire drill, were slow in leaving the building.

Even when it became known that the building was on fire many returned to the dressing rooms on the upper floor for clothes and valuables.

The flames spread with lightning-like rapidity, and the intensity of the heat prevented the firemen from getting within fighting range of the overall factory until rescue was impossible.

ARE ROASTED TO DEATH.

Women and girls, too weak to go farther, dropped, exhausted, on the single fire escape in the rear of the building and literally roasted to death, pertions of the bodies dropping into the streets. Others jumped and were killed.

Half a dozen of the panic-stricken girls rushed into the elevator, which was standing on the fourth floor. A moment later all dropped to their death.

Only the efficiency of the fire department prevented the spread of the flames to business blocks lining Water street between Court and Henry streets.

SENATE PASSES BILL APPLYING WEBB LAW TO GEORGIA

Measure Was Adopted by Vote of 36 to 3 After Two Hours of Heated Debate Wednesday Morning

ROADS RESPONSIBLE FOR PACKAGES OVER 3 GALLONS

If the Shipments Are Less Than Three Gallons, the Burden of Proving Them Illegal Rests on State

The Georgia state senate Wednesday morning passed the Hixon-Searcy bill applying the provisions of the Webb act against the importation of spirituous liquors to Georgia.

The passage of the bill came only after two hours of bitter argument and only after four amendments to the measure had been voted down. Yet the final vote was 36 to 3 in favor of the bill, as reported by the temperance committee with one amendment, the committee's own.

The bill has but two important sections. The first, which prohibits the importation of spirituous liquors into the state for illegal use, was favored almost unanimously by the senators. This measure will not apply to near-beer, to locker clubs lawfully conducted, nor to persons ordering liquor for private use.

The second section was the bone of contention. It fixes the burden of proof in case the legality of a shipment is questioned.

The committee's amendment which was adopted says that when the questioned shipment is in excess of three gallons (one case), the burden shall be upon the carrier, or express company, to show that it was ordered for legal purposes. When less than three gallons it shall be up to the state to show that the shipment was for illegal purposes.

DEBATE GROWS LIVELY.

The prohibitionists, led by Senators Hixon and Searcy, wished to strike out the three-gallon clause entirely, leaving it to the carrier in every case to prove the legality of the shipment. They began their fight by offering an amendment to this effect.

Senator McNeill, in a fiery speech opposed the first amendment. He began as every senator who took the floor began by saying that personally he was a prohibitionist. According to Senator McNeill, he was a prohibitionist in a restricted sense.

His speech was a vigorous arraignment of the present prohibition law. That it allowed blind tigers to operate and was thus the cause of murders, burglaries and felonies which he said had increased 66 2-3 per cent since the law was passed. Senator McNeil defied the prohibitionists to deny.

He characterized the first section as a good law. The second, he claimed, worked an illegal hardship on the carrier and on those carrying the three-gallon clause. Without this clause, he said, any sheriff or deputy could indict any shipper who might order one pint a month, etc., continued to hit the prohibition law.

"Every one knows," he cried, "that every man in Georgia is entitled to his alcoholic as well as intoxicating. You start with near-beer and got 'nigher' and 'nigher' and 'nigher.' If the prohibitionists had their way they would close up the state of Georgia tighter than the tightest clam on the Atlantic coast. That is the very reason I don't favor absolute prohibition, because if we had it, our very good friends, the antis, would make an exodus once a month."

The senator's point occasioned much laughter.

President Anderson began to call on the speakers by alternating from side to side.

HE OPPOSED CLAUSE.

Senator Sweat spoke against the three-gallon clause, declaring that he "had never touched a drop of liquor or bought a drop of liquor" in his life. One he supported his view was Senator McGregor, who made a ringing speech.

Senator Sweat, Senator Smith and Senator Harrell all were in favor of putting the burden of proof on the state and not the carrier.

Senator Dicker proposed to amend the three-gallon clause by changing it to one-gallon, but was voted down by the close margin of 23 to 22.

Senator Hixon's amendment striking out this clause entirely was voted down, as were two amendments by Senator Nix, which provided for seizure of liquor in the hands of the carrier.

The bill, as amended with the three-gallon clause, was sent to the house within the next few days.

TEXT OF BILL.

The text of the bill as amended and passed by the senate follows:

Section 1. Be it enacted by the general assembly of the state of Georgia, and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same, that from and after the passage of this act, it shall be unlawful for any person, firm, corporation, public or private carrier, to ship or transport into this state, in any manner or by any means whatsoever from any point outside of the state, or from point to point within the state, any spirituous, vinous, malted, fermented, or other alcoholic liquors to be received, possessed, kept or in any manner used in violation of the laws of this state.

Sec. 2. Be it further enacted, that when the legality of any shipment, or transportation of the liquors mentioned in section 1 of this act, from a point outside of the state into this state, is brought in question in any court of this state, and the state has proven the shipment, the burden shall then be on the transporter of the same if in excess of three gallons to show that such shipment or transportation is authorized under the act of congress regulating commerce between the states, and foreign countries, and in default thereof such shipment, or transportation shall be held to be in violation of this act.

Sec. 3. Be it further enacted, that

ADJUTANT OVERSTEPPED BOUNDS, SAYS BLEASE

Head of Militia Commanded to Issue No More Orders Before Submitting Them to Gov.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
COLUMBIA, S. C., July 23.—A severe rebuke was given Adjutant General Moore today by Governor Blease for his action in ordering three of the companies of the Third regiment now encamped at Aiken, home because they did not have the required number of men, the governor saying that the adjutant general had assumed to himself authority which he did not have and which is lodged solely in the governor as commander-in-chief. The governor promises to make an investigation into the whole matter and says that things must be in more pleasant conditions or he will call off the encampments at Anderson and Camp Willie Jones, the First regiment being under orders to encamp at Anderson this week and the Second at Camp Willie Jones, near Columbia, in August.

Captain J. H. Claffy, commander of the Orangeburg company, one of the three sent home because it did not have the required quota of men, reported the matter to Governor Blease this morning, saying Adjutant General Moore had told him his company could not even draw rations and transportation. In a telegram to Colonel Julius B. Cogswell, commander of the Third regiment, Governo Blease says the adjutant general is without authority to issue any orders except as a representative of the commander-in-chief, and he hasn't given him any such authority. The governor said he understood that companies falling below the quota were entitled to transportation and subsistence while in camp, and that had the matter been reported to him the whole thing could have been avoided and the companies remained in camp.

In a letter to Captain Claffy the governor assures him his company is excused from field duty this year and need fear no harm. Referring to the adjutant general he says:

"I dislike to think that the man is drunk on power, or that he has lost his head on account of his promotion, but there is something peculiarly strange about his conduct."

The governor orders the adjutant general to issue no more orders, no matter ho winsignificant, "by order of the cammander-in-chief," unless the same is personally presented to him.

MEXICANS MAKE BLOODY THREAT TO AMERICANS

EL PASO, Tex., July 23.—Threats to kill all the Americans in the Madera settlement, burn the big Madera lumber plant which supply the El Paso Milling company with lumber and raze every American house in the camp, were made last week in the Pearson compound as the result of the harboring of the American cow men after they had killed two of the bandits of El Mocho Martinez's brigand band.

Telegraph wires are down and the officials of the Madera company and friends of the Americans in Madera are afraid the bandits have already carried out their threats.

The brigands are preventing any one from leaving the camp.

Among the Americans who are in Madera are:

H. C. Herr, of Newark, Ohio, manager of the Madera mills; F. J. Clark, of El Paso, superintendent of the El Paso division of the Mexican Northwestern railroad; W. J. Farragut, of Alabama, a nephew of Admiral Farragut, manager of the commissary department at Madera.

Heat in Washington Drives Ambassadors To Summer Resorts

(By Associated Press.)
WASHINGTON, July 23.—In spite of the imminence of the passage of a new tariff law and the existence of krave foreign questions it developed today that of the forty nations represented here only one ambassador and eight ministers have remained in the capital. The others have surrendered to the Washington heat and have slipped away by ones and twos to the mountains and the seashore. The situation is considered out of the ordinary, for congress is in session and the president of the United States remains actively at work at the White House.

Of the ambassadors the only one remaining in Washington is Viscount Chinda, whose presence here is necessitated by reason of the California alien land law controversy. The eight ministers who are sticking to their posts are representatives, with the exception of the Cuban minister, of Central and South American countries. They are accustomed to tropical weather in their own countries, however, and are not suffering. The others have fled before the torridity.

NEGRO BURGLAR GETS 21 YEARS AT ROME, GA.

He Is Believed to Have Committed Several Burglaries in Atlanta

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
ROME, Ga., July 23.—Arthur Young, colored, alias John Reed, was sentenced yesterday to twenty-one years in the penitentiary for the home of W. H. Coker recently. The negro is believed to have committed several burglaries in Atlanta, and one in Austell. He admitted that he had been a professional gambler, saying that he would work as a machinist a while and spend the rest of his time gaming. He has been a troublesome prisoner, and broke jail once since his incarceration several weeks ago.

George Barnes, another negro, pleaded guilty to the burglary of Hill & Owens' store here, and was sentenced to serve two years.

Numerous other small cases are being tried this week at Floyd superior court, which is in the midst of a big criminal docket.

CORONER EXONERATES ENGINEER AND ROAD

Says Deaths of June 12 on New Haven Line Were Accidental

(By Associated Press.)
BRIDGEPORT, Conn., July 23.—Neither Engineer Dougherty, nor the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad was guilty of criminal negligence in connection with the wreck at Stanford, on June 12, according to the finding of Coroner Phelan of this city today.

The finding is based on the death of Ada Pearl Kelley, of Chicago, one of the six passengers killed in the Pullman car, "Skylark," which was telescoped. Her death is classed as "accidental."

WASHINGTON, July 23.—Republican Leader Mann again filibustered the house into an adjournment today. As the climax to a series of parliamentary delays, he forced a roll call, taking a half hour on Democratic Leader Underwood's motion to adjourn.

GEORGIA WEEKLY EDITORS IN SESSION AT LAGRANGE

On Friday They Will Be Entertained by Brunswick Board of Trade

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
LAGRANGE, Ga., July 23.—In the convention hall of the Troup county court house the delegates and visitors to the Weekly Press association met yesterday in their twenty-seventh annual conference. General topics of interest to members of the association were discussed.

Hon. J. F. Shannon, of the Commerce (Ga.) News, in his subject, "Do We Need a Pure Advertisement Law in Georgia?" was well received, and portrayed the necessity of advertising especially among the weekly newspapers. At 11:30 p. m. the meeting adjourned.

Thursday morning the delegates will leave for Brunswick, Ga., stopping at Fitzgerald for a half hour as guests of the city. On Friday they will be the guests of the Brunswick board of trade, indulging in boat rides, fish fries and bathing. Saturday the delegates will leave for Fernandina, Fla., returning in the evening of that day.

MR. WILSON'S CANDIDATE FOR CONGRESS ELECTED

Archibold C. Hart Carries Sixth New Jersey District Over S. Woods McClave

(By Associated Press.)
SUSSEX, N. J., July 23.—Archibold C. Hart, Democrat, was elected to the house from the Sixth congressional district of New Jersey today to succeed the late James Martin. Hart had the support of President Wilson.

The Republican candidate, S. Woods McCave, who was mentioned in the Mulhall testimony before the senate lobby investigators, ran second, and Herbert M. Bailey, Progressive, third. The returns were incomplete tonight, but indications were that Hart ran ahead of McCave by more than 5,000.

Progressives of New Jersey will have a complete ticket in the field at the coming state election.

FINANCIER ANTHONY BRADY DIES SUDDENLY IN LONDON

(By Associated Press.)
NEW YORK, July 23.—The death of Anthony H. Brady, which is reported to have occurred suddenly in London last evening from an attack of acute indigestion, was a shock to the financier's friends here, for Mr. Brady had sailed from New York only a week ago apparently in good health. He was broken in spirit, however, having grieved for several months over the loss of a daughter and three other relatives who were killed in the wreck on the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad at Westport, Conn., October, 1912.

Alex Fullerton Dead

NEW YORK, July 23.—The death of Alexander Fullerton, a noted student of theosophy at a sanitarium on Long Island, on Monday night became known today. For many years he was the American secretary of the Theosophical Society, of which Mrs. Annie Besant was president. He was a man of independent means and devoted his whole fortune, as well as his life to the study and dissemination of the principles of theosophy. Fullerton travelled widely.

Booklovers' Bulletin

We know our big family of Booklovers are anxious, and want news of the campaign.

Since the middle of last week the Campaign Editor and his force have been busy receiving, stamping and stacking away answers. As the last of the answers were in by 10 a. m. Tuesday, a meeting of the Judges was called and Hon. M. L. Brittain, Major R. J. Guinn and Howard S. Cole responded and organized by electing Hon. M. L. Brittain chairman. After explaining to them the system of special stamping each set of answers as they were received, and examining those so stamped, it was decided to add one more safeguard to the sets, and it was ordered that all sets be listed and renumbered, and The Journal's private seal stamped over the number. Then the original stamp with which all the sets were stamped was destroyed in the presence of the Judges. The listing and renumbering of the sets will take several days, and then the Judges will have another meeting, examine the work, and the Chairman will receive a duplicate list of all contestants' names and addresses, with their numbers. This will be a guarantee to the contestants that no set of answers can be slipped in or counted in any way after the checking of answers has begun. As soon as this work is completed and the checking is started, we will publish two pictures a day with the correct titles. Watch The Journal for particulars, as we will keep you posted right along.

Sleepless Husband Asks Court to Give Him His Freedom

That his wife would sleep all day long in order that she could lie awake at night and worry him when he came home tired from work and in need of sleep, is one of the unique allegations in the suit of E. R. Sweat for divorce from Mrs. Blanche Sweat, filed in the superior court Wednesday by Attorney S. A. Boorstein.

Sweat, who lives at 23 Gresham street, charges that soon after their marriage in February, of this year, his wife began a series of persecutions, which culminated July 15, when he charges that she tried to poison him by placing pulverized glass in his coffee cup. The coffee tasted peculiarly, he says, and he stirred it and got some grounds in his spoon. Then he discovered the glass, he says.

He charged his wife with attempting to poison him, he alleges, and says that by way of reply she hurled the sugar bowl at him, and then snatching the coffee cup from his hands destroyed it.

His wife slapped him in the face in the presence of strangers and otherwise abused him, he alleges.

MR. DANIELS' ADDRESS AT SEATTLE GETS O. K.

Chamber of Commerce, Arctic and Rainer Clubs Deny Secretary Incited Riots

(By Associated Press.)
SEATTLE, Wash., July 23.—A joint telegram absolving Secretary of the Navy Josephus Daniels from any responsibility for the street riots here Friday night, when a mob of civilians, led by sailors from the Pacific reserve fleet, sacked the headquarters of the Socialists and Industrial Workers of the World, was sent to President Wilson last night by the president of the Seattle chamber of commerce, the Arctic club and the Rainier club.

The telegram is in the form of a resolution adopted by the three clubs and refers to the allegation made in the Socialist memorial that Secretary Daniel's Rainier club speech Thursday night was responsible for the riots.

Falls 110 Feet, Then Walks to His Home

(By Associated Press.)
ST. MR. ORVILLE M. TIFT IS DEAD AT TIFTON

Funeral Held Wednesday Afternoon—Was One of South Georgia's Leading Men

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
TIFTON, Ga., July 23.—Mr. Orville M. Tift died Tuesday morning at 6:30 o'clock at the home of his mother, Mrs. Eliza C. Tift, postmaster at Tifton.

Mr. Tift was a son of the late W. O. Tift, of Tifton, who for a number of years was one of the leading merchants of the city. He was about forty years of age and was married in 1904 to Miss Eva Sheppard, who, with four children, Mary, Evelyn, Orville, Jr., and Frederic, with his mother and sister, Mrs. Katherine Jones of Pittsburg, survive him.

His sister, Mrs. Jones, was in Europe at the time his condition became serious, but sailed for home when she received the news of his critical condition. She is now at sea, and will be unable to reach here in time for the funeral.

The funeral was held in Tifton this afternoon.

Watch Your Baby These Summer Days

Little Stomachs Get Out of Order Easily in Hot Weather

During the hot months mothers should look very carefully to the condition of the bowels of babies and young children, and, for that matter, it is very important in the lives of people at all ages. Care should be taken that the water is pure, the milk wholesome and the fruit ripe (though not over-ripe), and that not too much of anything is eaten.

When trouble results it is usually in the form of constipation or of diarrhoea. If the child loses appetite, is fretful or languid, and complains of headache, you may look for constipation. Give it a small dose of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin at night on retiring, and by morning this pleasant laxative will have acted and the child will be its normal self again.

At the first sign of a summer cold also give Syrup Pepsin, as the cleaning out of the bowels will usually be sufficient to break the cold. Summer diarrhoea can be stopped in the same way by ridding the bowels of the poisons and germs that cause the trouble. This opinion of the value of Syrup Pepsin is shared by thousands of people like Mrs. Ella Denzel, 124 Nichols Ave., Stratford, Conn., who uses it successfully herself and gives it to her two little boys; and Mrs. C. C. Allen, of New Monterey, Cal., who finds it in every particular just what she and her family need.

Avoid giving children cathartics, purgatives, pills or powders, as they are too harsh. Confine yourself to a gentle laxative-tonic like Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. You can obtain it of any druggist at fifty cents and one dollar a bottle, the latter being the family size.

Families wishing to try a free sample bottle can obtain it, postpaid, by addressing Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 418 Washington St., Monticello, Ill.

Girl Bride Shoots Husband to Prevent Desertion, She Says

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
GAINESVILLE, Ga., July 23.—Physicians today entertain hope for the recovery of Tom Wood, a baseball player, who was shot Sunday night by his nineteen-year-old girl bride, who is held under the charge of assault with intent to murder.

The young woman declares that she shot Wood because she feared he would desert her.

GERMANS SARCASTIC, BUT SATISFIED WITH WILSON

(By Associated Press.)
BERLIN, July 23.—The proposed treaty between the United States and Nicaragua evokes a few sarcastic comments in the German press on President Wilson's return to the system of "dollar diplomacy."

Government circles, however, express themselves as perfectly satisfied that the proposed protectorate over Nicaragua will diminish the chances of international disturoances and in prove the business coditions and the financial stability of that country.

AUSTELL THORNTON DIES IN ASHEVILLE, N. C.

Well-Known and Popular Atlantian Passed Away Early Wednesday

The many friends of Austell Thornton, of Atlanta, will be deeply grieved to hear of his death in Asheville, N. C., early Wednesday morning. He passed away at 2 o'clock at his summer home there, after an extended illness.

Mr. Thornton was one of the most highly regarded young men of Atlanta, being prominent socially and in business. He was a member of the leading social clubs, and among other interests in business was a director of the Atlanta National bank.

His widow, who was Miss Bob Venable, survives him, with two little children. He is survived also by his mother, Mrs. Lela A. Thornton; his brother, Albert Thornton, and his sister, Miss Janie Thornton. The members of his immediate family were with him when he passed away. Other relatives in Atlanta and Georgia also are left to mourn him.

Mr. Thornton, thirty-one years old, was reared in Atlanta and attended the public schools of the city. He was an alumnus of the University of Georgia.

The body will arrive in Atlanta early Thursday morning, and the funeral services will be held at 4 o'clock Thursday afternoon at the home of the deceased, 611 Peachtree street. The services will be conducted by Rev. Dunbar H. Ogden, pastor of the Central Presbyterian church. Interment will be private, in Oakland cemetery.

CONFESSES BURGLARY ON CARROLL STREET

R. W. Miller Admits Attempt to Loot Carroll Street Store, Denies Other Charges

A confession was obtained by the police Tuesday night, from R. W. Miller, of Red Oak, Ga., captured Monday night with T. W. Reeves in the act of looting the store at 20 Carroll street. The police say that Miller admitted having stolen a number of suit cases from the Atlanta depots, but declares that he would not confess anything further and that he maintained a firm denial of everything else, even of the burglary in which he was caught.

Both Miller and Reeves were confronted at headquarters Tuesday night by their supposed "pal," a member of the city detective force, who had been working with them for several weeks. The detective related to them what they had done before his own eyes, but the accused men preserved their stoical attitude and denied that he knew what he was talking about. Reeves called the detective a liar.

They're slick customers," is Chief Lanford's estimate of the two men in the net.

The detective chief acknowledged that the third supposed burglar who escaped Monday night by diving through a window and carrying sash and all with him when the three were caught in the store, is none other than the detective who has been in touch constantly with headquarters.

NEGRO BAPTISTS HOLD ANNUAL CONVENTION

The eighteenth annual convention of the state Baptist Young People's Union, colored, began its sessions at the Beulah Baptist church Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock.

The meeting was presided over by A. W. Bryant, D. D., the president of the Union, who, after a prayer, conducted the devotions. J. H. James, of Central City college, conducted the annual expression meeting.

A large number of delegates from the state at large put in their appearance at the evening session. W. R. Forbes, of Macon, presided and the president, A. W. Bryant, delivered his annual address. The officers for the coming year were then elected as follows:

A. W. Bryant, D. D., president, Savannah; W. A. Flagg, vice president, Macon; F. Thompson, M. D., clerk, Boston; R. McEvoy, assistant clerk, Macon; C. L. Watson, treasurer, Columbus; J. Anderson, state organizer, Americus; W. R. Forbes, D. D., musical director, Macon; Pearl E. Thweatt, organist, Macon; Ida Melvin, librarian, Cordele.

PRICE IS NAMED FOR ROOMS FOR EXHIBIT

At a meeting of the board of directors of the chamber of commerce Tuesday afternoon, held behind closed doors, a price on the four upper floors of the new chamber building at the corner of Pryor and Auburn avenue was named to the committee on permanent manufacturers' exhibit of Atlanta-made goods.

Brooks Morgan is chairman of the permanent exhibit committee, and is said to have had several places under consideration, it is known, however, that the committee favors the chamber of commerce proposition. This committee will report within the next few days.

BIBLE READING BILL VOTED DOWN, 8 TO 5

Following Hearing With Ministers Tuesday, Committee Blocks Measure

The Searcy-Bush bill which provides for the reading of the Bible in the public schools of the state was reported to the senate Wednesday morning with the recommendation that it do not pass, following a four-hour hearing of Atlanta ministers before the committee on education Tuesday afternoon.

The bill was reported favorably to the senate about a week ago, was recommitted, and held until the local ministers could be given a chance to argue for and against it. The committee convened at 3 o'clock Tuesday afternoon and was in session until nearl 7 o'clock, when the bill was voted down, 8 to 5.

Among those who spoke against the bill were Dr. John E. White, Dr. David Marx, Father G. S. Rapier and Dr. L. E. Barton. Supporting the measure were Dr. C. W. Daniel, Dr. W. P. Lovejoy, Dr. C. O. Jones and others.

FIRE IN RESTAURANT AT BREAKFAST HOUR

"They should worry," said the dozen or more breakfasters at Durand's restaurant when a few flames licked the ceiling of the room they were in. The fire occurred about 7:30 Wednesday morning and was probably caused by a defective wire near the flue of the warming retainer. It was of no consequence and no damage was done.

The call was a central one and all the fire companies rushed to the scene and began swarming in upon the breakfasters who paid no attention to them whatever, but went on sipping their coffee and eating their rolls. A large crowd of early workers were gathered on the streets to watch the fire.

Great July Pre-Inventory Sales at

M. RICH & BROS. CO.

A Lavish Distribution of Fine Linens

Most Extraordinary Clearaway That We've Ever Attempted

Prices Drop to Half & Less For a Stirring 3-Days' Sale

"Clean Stocks" is our slogan—our rigid Pre-Inventory Policy is not to carry over any soiled merchandise nor odds and ends.

That's the reason for the finest linens in the South being offered at a fraction of their value.

To our certain knowledge no Southern store ever offered linens of such qualities at these near half and less-than-half prices.

The left aisle table and counters are heaped high with values. Though the sale is scheduled for three days—Thursday, Friday and Saturday—it is plain that the best Bargains will be snapped up Thursday. Selling starts at 8:30 with these unprecedented values.

Half-Price Sale of Fancy Linens

Practically the entire stock included at these shattered prices—real Cluny laces, Florentine lace, Bayeux lace, real Madeira embroideries and many other handsome pieces of real hand needlework.

STATE'S W. & A. SUIT GOES TO HIGHEST COURT

Governor Grants Request of State's Lawyers to Appeal the Case

The state's suit in the matter of rates against the Western and Atlantic railroad lessees will be carried to the supreme court of the United States on federal constitutional grounds. Governor John M. Slaton on Wednesday sent to Attorney General T. S. Felder and Judge J. K. Hines special attorney of the Georgia railroad commission, his written approval of their request for permission to appeal the case to the highest court in the land.

A similar request made by these officials to Governor Brown several months ago was denied by him. His position was that the decision of the state supreme court was sufficient, even though the point of the decision was a section of the federal constitution.

The state's case against the W. & A. lessees has been turned down by the superior court of Fulton county, and the decision of that court has been upheld aginst the state by the Georgia supreme court.

In his letter to Mr. Felder and Judge Hines, the governor stipulates that the appeal will bring no extra compensation to either official. They had not asked for that.

WHAT SUIT INVOLVES.

The suit involves the right of the state to control freight rates on the Western and Atlantic under the following clause in the lease contract act by the legislature of 1889:

"But the said leasing company shall be subject to, and required to observe and obey, all just and reasonable rules, orders, schedules of freight and passenger tariffs, as may be prescribed by the laws of this state and the railroad commission of this state; and said lease company shall not charge no greater rate per ton per mile on through freight on said railroad than the legal rate allowed and fixed on the same freight by the railroad commission for said railroad."

The state alleged that the railroad, which enters Tennessee for a few miles, was charging a higher rate on through freight than on local Georgia freight, and that therefore the lease contract had been violated.

On November 11, 1911, the state filed a petition for injunction against the lessees, to restrain them from charging higher rates on through freight than those fixed by the Georgia standard tariff and classification. The state also asked for a mandatory injunction to compel the lessees to comply with the lease contract as it was construed by the state. The petitions were denied by the superior court, and the supreme court affirmed the decision.

The request of Mr. Felder and Judge Hines for authority to go to the highest court in the country was filed with Governor Slaton on July 17.

RECEIVER ASKED FOR COTTON PRODUCTS CO.

George C. Speir Says He Can't Get Along With A. A. Smith

George C. Speir has petitioned the superior court to appoint a receiver to liquidate the partnership known as the A. A. Smith Cotton Products company.

Although the company is clearing about $20,000 per year, according to Mr. Speir, he asks that the concern be put in the hands of a receiver and liquidated because he cannot get along with his partner, A. A. Smith.

Mr. Speir says the partnership was formed about eleven years ago, and that he has always been the practical man of the firm. Through his efforts, he says, the business, which deals in cotton products, has grown until its net yearly income is $20,000.

However, he says that recently employee of Mr. Smith, who has an office for the conduct of another business in the same building, have been interfering in the management of the cotton products company. Mr. Speir says he thought the trouble was settled a year ago by a written agreement that George Obear, an employe of Mr. Smith, was not to interfere in the company's management.

Now, however, he says he is convinced that he can never agree with his partner and asks that the concern be liquidated.

JACK WILSON TO WALK TO BARTERSVILLE, OKLA.

If you see a firy, sunburned young man, thin and rather tall wearing a broad brim hat that's Jack Wilson. He will leave "Five Points" Thursday morning at 9:30. Jack is out to do a "west on" to Bartersville, Okla., a mere matter of about 860 miles. He has just finished a walk from Jacksonville, Fla., to Atlanta, coming along the National Highway.

Jack walks for the love of it, he says. He likes to see the dusty country stretching out before him, he likes to forage his food and sleep out in the open. He averages 25 miles a day, he says.

His route is from here to Montgomery when to New Orleans from there to Galveston and then on into Oklahoma. Wilson has a brother, L. C. Wilson, in Atlanta.

Fourteen Miners Killed

(By Associated Press.)

GEILENKIRCHEN, Germany, July 23.—Fourteen coal miners were found dead this morning in a pit, where they were entombed by a fall of coal. A large area above the mine had caved in as a result of a recent cloudburst.

Relief for Burning Feet

Does walking burn your feet and make them ache with jumping, shooting pains? The feet are perspiring, poreclogged with poisonous excretions. Jacobs' Foot Relief Tablets dissolved in a warm foot bath draws out this poisonous matter, opens the pores and prevents abnormal sweating. Instantly it soothes the feet and stops the aching and burning sensations, and when used a few nights your foot tortures are ended. THEATRES

(Criticisms of initial performances at the local theaters are written by members of The Journal staff. All other matter appearing in this column is furnished by the theater managements.)

FORSYTH—Vaudeville.
GRAND—Motion Pictures.
BIJOU—Tabloid Musical Comedy.

The standing room only sign has been doing duty at the Forsyth at every performance this week—and there is the heaviest advance sale that has ever been recorded in the busy theatre.

John F. Conroy the famous life saver, assisted by two charming diving models present a wonderful stage picture and a magnificent diving act.

There has never been a more elaborate stage mounting used here nor has there been a better diving act.

Hits are being recorded by Deiro, the accordionist, Lester the ventriloquist and Smith and Cook the eccentric comedians, assisted by dancing Marie Brandon.

One of the features next week will be Joe Welsh, the famous character comedian whose hebrew stories have always been so pleasing.

"Les Miserables" is a wonderful photo-play; it is one of the most interesting that has ever scored at the Grand.

There are daily matinees at 2:30 and the night performance at 8:30. Reserved seats are sold for all performances, 25 cents at matinee and 25 and 50 cents at night.

A splendid entertainment at bargain prices is to be seen this week at the Bijou, where the latest musical comedy tabloid, "Good Morning Judge," is being offered and drawing the biggest crowds of the season. It is safe to say that no attraction in the tabloid series has given such general satisfaction as one that is scoring such a hit this week and unless all signs fail the house records will be broken before the end of the engagement Saturday night.

The principals are all good, the chorus is well drilled and delightfully costumed and every musical number presented is new and of the popular brand that demands a whistling when one leaves the theater.

Matinees are given daily at 3 o'clock, and night shows at 7:30 and 9.

PROPOSES $10,000 EXHIBIT OF GEORGIA'S RESOURCES

Shelby Myrick Introduced Bill Looking to Panama Pacific Exposition

In anticipation of Georgia's proposed mineral an dagricultural exhibit at the Panama-Pacific exposition in 1915, Shelby Mylick, of Chatham, introduced a bill in the house Wednesday morning, providing for an appropriation of $10,000 for this purpose.

The money is to go to the department of agriculture and at once the department is authorized to begin a collection of mineral and agricultural products of Georgia, and place same on exhibition in the state capitol until the time for such products to be shipped to San Francisco.

THREE BANKRUPTCY PETITIONS ARE FILED

JUDGE ELLIS WILL AID CHIEF'S VICE CRUSADE

Announces He Will Grant No More Restraining Orders Without Hearing Police

The aid of the superior court in his vice crusade was virtually promised Chief of Police James L. Beavers by Judge W. D. Ellis in a statement from the bench Wednesday, when the injunction of Lula Bell, restraining the police from raiding her house, was withdrawn by her attorney.

Since the crusade was inaugurated some months ago, many temporary orders restraining the police from raiding certain houses or forcing their occupants to move have been granted by the superior court.

As a result the hands of the police have been tied by the temporary orders while waiting for hearings on the injunction, which have often times been delayed for several weeks.

Lula Bell, a woman of 164 1-2 Peters street, who operates a boarding house there, was recently in the limelight because of a sensational story told by a girl inmate. She was ordered to move by Chief Beavers and through Attorney Carl N. Guess went to the court and asked a temporary order.

The hearing of the case was set for Wednesday and when all parties appeared in the court Attorney Guess asked that the injunction be withdrawn and announced that the woman had agreed to move by August 1.

It was then that Judge Ellis told the chief of police from the bench that in the future he did not expect to grant any temporary restraining orders in boarding house cases until the police had a chance to be heard.

Temporary orders are generally granted on ex parte petitions in which anything can be alleged, and oftentimes when the case is heard no effort is made to prove many of the allegations made in the petitions.

The judge's announcement that he is going to give Chief Beavers a chance to state his side of the matter before an order restraining him from raiding a house is issued, is expected by the chief to aid materially in his vice crusade.

Asks Legislature To Pay Teachers Rather Than Selves

A resolution directing the state treasurer to pay nothing to the legislators of 1914 and to divert the money which would be paid them to the long unpaid teachers of the state, was introduced in the house of representatives Wednesday morning by Representative McMichael, of Marion county.

The resolution was referred to the committee on education for report later.

Under the resolution the treasurer would issue to each member of the general assembly of 1914 a certificate of indebtedness, payable six months after date without interest, for the full amount of the perdiem due him by the state.

WOUND IN ROOF OF MOUTH BRINGS DEATH

(By Associated Press.)

NEWARK, N. J., July 23.—An autopsy today disclosed the wound that caused the death of Mrs. Emma Corduan, found dead last night under the bed in her home. The coroner's physician said that a sharp round instrument had been driven through the doof of the woman's mouth into her brain. The police thought the wound could have been inflicted with a rat-tail file, and are hunting for William oCrduan, the woman's husband, who is a file-maker.

SOUTH CAROLINA FARMERS IN ANNUAL CONVENTION

CHARLESTON, S. C., July 22.—The seventh annual convention of the South Carolina Farmers' union opens today at the Isle of Palms, with President E. W. Dabbs, of Mayesville, in the chair. The farmers will spend today and tomorrow at the local beach, their chief discussions centering on cotton marketing and the use of fertilizers.

Speakers for the convention are Dr. Bradford Knapp and C. J. Brand, of Washington, and Colonel E. J. Watson and Prof. W. W. Long, of South Carolina.

"AWAY ABOVE EVERYTHING"

"Smoky" Joe Wood — "Rube" Marquard

Champion Pitchers

BOSTON not only won the 1912 championship in the American League largely through the great pitching of "Smoky" Joe Wood, but also the World's Series games. This 23 year old Missouri boy equalled Walter Johnson's 1912 record of 16 straight victories and ended the season with a pitching average of .827.

Failing dismally immediately after his acquisition from Indianapolis and hailed as a "$11,000 lemon," Marquard, of the Giants established the season's record of 19 straight victories in 1912, ending the season with a pitching average of .703. In the World's Series contests, Marquard took both his games from the Boston Red Sox.

Minority Report Filed To Bible Reading Bill

Other than passing the Hixon-Searcy bill Wednesday morning the state senate had a session devoid of much legislation.

Several minority reports were filed with reports of committees. Among these was a minority report on the bill requiring the Bible to be read in the public schools, reported unfavorably Wednesday morning. The minority report was signed by Senators Bush, McGregor, Richardson and Searcy.

The bill reported unfavorably on making a husband and wife competent but not compellable to testify against each other in the courts was accompanied by a minority report signed by Senators Sweat, Elkins and Spinks.

The rotation of judges bill, also reported unfavorably Wednesday morning, had a minority report signed by Senators Tarver, Burtz, Kea, Irwin and Turner.

Senate Bills

The following bills were introduced Mr. DuBose, ofsbrdlshrdlshrdluhrdluuuu in the Georgia senate Wednesday:

By Mr. DuBose, of Thirtieth—To amend section 895 of code, so that children living under certain circumstances may be given over to the care of some one other than parents.

By Mr. DuBose, of Thirtieth—To amend section 3016 of code.

By Mr. Peyton, of Thirty-first—To authorize granting of free passes to sheriffs and deputies.

By Mr. McGregor, of Nineteenth—To extend the powers of commissioner of pensions.

Br. Mr. McNeil, of Twenty-second—To amend section 3501 of code, so as to permit any trust company to be appointed county administrator.

By Mr. Kea, of Sixteenth—To present amount of costs in city court of Dublin.

By Mr. Irwin, of Thirty-fourth—To compel railroads to maintain telephone in ticket offices.

By Mr. Allen—To fix status of every resident of state whose response has total divorce.

SENATE BILL PASSED.

By Mr. Smith, of Ninth—To authorize judges of superior court to grant charters to private companies during vacation.

By Messrs. Pope, Hixon, and Tower—To put in force constitutional amendment exempting from taxation farm products including baled cotton grown in state and remaining in hands of producer but not longer than for the year next after their production.

By substitute of Mr. Searcy—To apply the provisions of the Webb act to Georgia.

GEORGIA AND HER POLITICS

Senator Bacon Unable to Accept Invitation of General Assembly.

A special dispatch to The Journal from its Washington correspondent says that Senator A. O. Bacon will not be able to accept the invitation of the general assembly to address that body. The senator has written President Anderson, of the senate, and Speaker Burwell, of the house, that he appreciates the invitation, but that it is impossible for him to leave Washington at this time.

Senator Bacon is chairman of the foreign relations committee of the senate, which is just now engaged with a number of treaties with foreign governments.

Senator G. M. Huie Wants Change Made in Atlanta Charter Bill.

Unless Atlanta's city council notifies him that it approves that section of the charter revision bill which reduces the power of the city recorder and limits the amount of a fine to be imposed by him to $200, instead of $500 as at present, Senator G. M. Huie, of the Thirty-fifth district, which embraces Fulton county, will doubtless oppose the bill or at least that section of it, in the senate.

This bill passed the house last week and is now before the senate. Commenting upon it, Senator Huie said:

"Of course, my position in the matter is not a personal one, although I do not think the recorder's powers should be reduced, but is in the interest of my constituents in Atlanta. The three representatives from Fulton represent the county, and not the city of Atlanta, and as a result I feel that I have the right to present the status of affairs to the city council and await their action on the matter. Until I hear officially from the council my position will be hostile to the section reducing the recorder's power."

Senator DuBose Congratulated by Friends of Agricultural College

Friends of the State College of Agriculture, at Athens, are congratulating Senator R. T. DuBose, of the Thirtieth district, for the good work he did in persuading the house appropriations committee to restore the college appropriation the $15,000 which the committee had decided to take away.

Senator DuBose, assisted by other friends of the college, so impressed the members of the committee with the good work being done by that institution that the $15,000 was restored without protest. It will be used by the college in advancing the corn club work in Georgia.

Representative Adams of Hall Discusses Tax Reform Bills

In the opinion of Representative J. O. Adams, of Hall county, a complete revision of Georgia's tax system is necessary. He thinks that if the Lipscomb bill, providing for state and county boards of tax equalizers is passed a constant dispute will result between the various counties as to the result of actions by the state board.

Discussing the subject Representative Adams says:

"It seems to me that the present plan of putting everything on the ad valorem basis and levying a uniform tax on that basis, while apparently just and fair is not adapted to present conditions and our whole method of taxation should be readjusted by a constitutional amendment.

"All private property should be relieved entirely from state taxation.

"The several counties should raise their revenues from this species of property, each county being dependent for its revenue upon this kind of property would be interested in seeing that the property was properly returned and the taxes paid. If a particular county was satisfied with low returns no other county would be concerned.

"The state revenue, in addition to the various licenses and occupation taxes, should be derived from the taxes on public utility corporations, such as are under the control of the railroad commission, and the taxes on these or on property devoted to use in business of this kind should be estimated according to the gross returns, and the amount of tax would then be arrived at, automatically, according to their reports to the railroad commission, and would not depend upon any personal assessment of the value of the properties, or upon the uncertain results of the present arbitration methods."

Appropriations Committee Wants $20,000 for Fight on Boll Weevil.

Aside from the items included in the general appropriations bill that came up for passage in the house Wednesday morning, the appropriations committee has recommended in a separate measure that $20,000 be given the state department of entomology, to be used in the fight to keep the boll weevil from Georgia and stamp out the scourge of black rot.

State Entomologist E. Lee Worsham appeared before the committee in an appeal for help and exhibited scores of the pests. The weevil, he declared, was due to reach some of the south Georgia counties in August.

Friends of Medical Practice Bills Fear They Will Not Pass.

Friends of the medical practice bills introduced in the house by S. F. Garlington, of Richmond, and in the senate by Dr. J. T. Longino, of the Thirty-sixth, are beginning to fear for the passage of either at this session of the legislature, though they have received favorable reports from committees to which they were referred.

Advocates of the measures are of the opinion that both are too far down on the calendar to be reached before the general assembly adjourns sine die three weeks hence.

Both bills are featured with a provision for a composite board of examining physicians consisting of five allopaths two homeopaths and one eclectic.

Baby-Joy for Teething Babies

Another disappointment to the Wilson enemies. His candidate won in New Jersey.

There seem to be two classes of powers, one composed of the Balkans and the other of the rest of Europe.

Portia's Simple Rights.

With a show of good sense and fair play which, it is to be hoped, the Legislature as a whole will emulate, the General Judiciary committee of the House has voted nine to three in favo... a bill permitting women to practice law in Georgia.

This measure, introduced by Mr. Cooper of Ware, is so obviously proper that it should bestir no opposition in any body of men who are blest with a spark of humor. If by chance the bill should not become a law, it will not be because the gentlemen of our Legislature are marble-hearted or impervious to appeals of justice but it will be simply because they are not canny enough to save themselves from a ridiculous blunder; and their majority, we feel sure, are not that deficient in mother wit.

Women are now freely admitted to all vocations in Georgia except the practice of law. They teach school, they keep books, they manage stores and own stores, they practice medicine, they farm and sell real estate, they prove their ability as architects, as chemists, as court clerks and, indeed, in practically every other calling. And yet, they are actually forbidden by statute to enter the solitary profession of the law! Verily, it passeth understanding how any one can defend so absurd a proposition and at the same time keep a serious face.

Unless the State insists upon a right to be egregiously pigheaded, it cannot deny women the right to practice law, when they are competent to do so.

Even ballot stuffing would be mild by the side of some things in Mexico.

Old Bill Bryan is another men who is disappointing his enemies these days.

Poor Roads and Rotten Potatoes.

The blighting effect of poorly built or poorly kept highways on agricultural profits is described in a particularly striking manner in a recent statement from the Federal office of public roads. Where bad roads prevail, we are told, the farmer must move his crops, not when prices are favorable and the demand for his products is ripe, but when weather conditions will permit; and in many localities of this kind he finds it impossible to move them at all. As a result vast quantities of food or industrial supplies are either sacrificed at ridiculously low prices or remain on the farm unused.

"Excessive fluctuations in market prices are seldom due to overproduction," the statement asserts. "They frequently take place in regions where the local production does not equal the consumption. There are counties rich in agricultural possibilities, burdened with bad roads, where the annual incoming shipments of food exceed the outgoing shipments in the ratio of four to one. Many such counties, with improved roads, not only become self-supporting, but would ship products to other markets."

The fact is many counties that are now importers could be made exporters by means of well-constructed and well-maintained system of roads. It is related that a farmer in Sullivan county, Tenn., a few miles from Bristol had a hundred bushels of Irish potatoes which he wished to market during the winter months. But because of bad roads he was unable to haul the potatoes to town and, so, they rotted in his cellar. Yet, at that very time potatoes were selling in Bristol for a dollar and forty cents a bushel; and a Bristol merchant is quoted as saying that in the course of the winter "as many as ten carloads of farm produce, including wheat, potatoes and other supplies, were shipped in daily to feed not Bristol but the adjacent territory."

What is more costly than poor roads? What is more profitable than good roads?

Reductions in Parcel Post Rates.

The public at large and merchants especially will welcome the announcement that there is to be an appreciable reduction, effective August the fifteenth, in parcel post rates. The present scale of charges within so-called "local" zones is five cents for the first pound and one cent for each additional pound; and the maximum weight allowed is eleven pounds. The new rate for "local" zones will be five cents for the first pound and one cent for each additional two pounds; at the same time the maximum weight will be increased to twenty pounds. For the second zone, which comprises territory within a hundred-and fifty mile radius, the present charges are six cents for the first pound and four cents for every additional pound. This rate will be lowered under the new order to five cents for the first pound and one cent for each additional pound; and in this zone also a maximum weight of twenty pounds to the parcel will be accepted.

These reductions in charges and increases in allowable weight will greatly extend the usefulness of the parcel post service. Though limited, for the present, to the first two zones, it is believed that eventually they will be applied to the country as a whole and will also be followed by other concessions and advantages. The present postal administration is working earnestly and effectively to make the parcel post continually cheaper and more available for the people's daily needs. The recent addition of the cash-on-delivery system and the order permitting the use of ordinary instead of special stamps on parcels for mail are distinct conveniences that will at once benefit the public and upbuild the patronage of the parcel post.

The growth of the new service has been more rapid and extensive than its heartiest advocates could have hoped for. The volume and variety of parcels have steadily increased from month to month, thereby adding considerably to the postoffice revenue. Mercantile houses have been enabled to cover a wider field of business; trade has been quickened and broadened, to the benefit of the customer as well as the dealer. Rural districts are awakening to the rich opportunity afforded them by the parcel post. Farmers and truck growers are establishing direct and economical connections with city patrons, a circumstance which in time will inevitably reduce the cost of living. Such improvements as the Postmaster General and his assistants have already made and purpose to effect in the immediate future will render the service still more popular and beneficial.

Short Shrift for Council's Charter.

Senator Hule, of the thirty-fifth senatorial district, which includes Fulton county, is well warranted in his opposition to the proposed new charter for Atlanta on the ground that it would unwisely curtail the powers of the City Recorder. It is owing very largely to the wholesome firmness and efficiency of its Recorder's court that Atlanta is known far and wide as community where the law is unusually well enforced. The Recorder has earned the public's confidence through years of duty faithfully and discreetly performed. He has used his authority in behalf of good government and the common interests. Senator Huie truly interprets the prevailing sentiment of the great majority of Atlantians when he objects to a charter that would diminish the usefulness of our Recorder's court.

The fact is the charter now before the Legislature had little to commend it in its original form; and since it has been garbled of the few, scattered virtues it did possess, it is not worth the consideration of a body of men who are pressed for time in meeting the State's vital needs. The original charter, as prepared by the City Council, did not propose to reduce the powers of the Recorder; that seems to have been the peculiarly personal idea of one of the Fulton county Representatives. The original charter provided for the initiative, referendum and recall. These features also have been cut away by the same Representative over the protest of Council members. The result is that now the document has not even an excuse for existence. It will probably be defeated in the Legislature; if not there, then certainly by the voters of Atlanta.

And thus will end another lesson in the utter folly of attempting to get anything like an efficient plan of government for this city except by breaking squarely away from the old sources and forces of inefficiency.

It is an easy death this charter will die and one that will bring few tears, we suspect, to those who begat it.

THE NEW RURAL SCHOOL

II.—HOW IT WAS BEGUN.

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN.

The experimental rural school at Rock Hill was planned not only to discover a method of curing the ills of the ordinary rural school, but also to find a method that would be within the reach of any country school district. Therefore, much thought was given to its equipment, as being the necessary first step that, once taken, might perhaps determine the whole future of the school. To get as far away as possible from the traditional school room idea it was determined to have no desks; to have three rooms, each to be used for a different purpose; and to make the physical surroundings of the children as home-like as might be—banishing every suggestion of the jail-like school house with its rows of desks and its prison discipline. As the intention was for this school to multiply in the country districts, a farm house was desired for the first home of the new school. One was found, as mentioned in yesterday's article, on the edge of the campus of Winthrop college at Rock Hill, S. C. It was a typical Carolina farm dwelling with a large veranda, clustered over with vines and roses. Flowers grew in profusion all about it, there were plenty of trees for shade and a few for fruit. With a little work the house was given an attractive homelike appearance, both inside and out. There was a well for a water supply, and ground enough for the necessary garden.

• • •

Three rooms were fitted up. The first and largest one was furnished with a long table covered with burlap and was christened "Teacher's Room." Curtains of scrim softened the lines of the windows without cutting off the light, potted plants were placed before the windows, and the room given a cheerful air. Broad shelves were built for writing and drawing materials, scissors, modelling clay, and sewing implements. A few chairs were grouped about the big table. Only the blackboard gave a hint that this was a school room.

• • •

On the table were displayed the books, the school books, such dull and dreary enemies of childhood as Mother Goose, Pinafore Palace, Robinson Crusoe, Lang's Fairy Tales and the like.

• • •

The next room was turned into a carpenter's shop. There were two benches, very simply made, and such ordinary carpenter's tools as saws, hammers, chisels, a square, a brace-and-bit—nothing not easily to be had in any farming community. Care was exercised not to furnish too many things, or tools that would be unavailable to the children at home. A blackboard again was the only typical school room device.

• • •

The third room was dedicated to cookery. There was a big coal range, two kitchen tables, the cooking utensils and dishes. Again care was taken not to have things that were not a part of the most ordinary kitchen equipment—special devices of the domestic science schools being barred in favor of the ordinary implements of the common farm kitchen. And here also the inevitable blackboard. Seats were placed on the veranda, and here, near the pump, were hung the drinking cups, one for each pupil, on numbe... pegs.

Such was the house. The garden and the play-ground were there, and with the exception of a tool house in the garden for the wheel-hoes, rakes, hand hoes and trowels, they were much as nature furnished them.

• • •

On March 21, 1911, at 9 o'clock in the mornnig, the Rock Hi... school ceased to be a project and became a fact. The experiment was launched. Mrs. Browne found eight children, two boys and six girls, ranging from six to nine years old, to be her first human material. The first thing she did was to show them through the house and exhibit the wonders and resources of its three rooms. Then everybody went to the garden.

• • •

There the children were delighted to find that each of them was to have a garden for his very own, and they wanted to begin work instantly. A three-foot walk had been laid off down the middle of the garden. By measuring, the children helping, it was found to be forty feet on either side from this walk to the fence. So each garden was to be forty feet long, and now it must be decided how wide each was to be. Each child wished for a very large garden, but the teacher limited their zeal to a width of seven feet so as to leave room for new pupils.

• • •

Walks were laid out, one foot wide, separating the children's gardens. Difficulty was found in getting the sides straight and one of the boys suggested the use of a garden line. A piece of twine was found and the children, after much measuring, finally laid off their own gardens and began to dig with pride of ownership. That was the first day at school and not a child would go home when school was out!

• • •

But some of the children had forgotten what gardens were their own, so they insisted that the garden be marked. ...ut how? Each child was asked to go to the blackboard and draw a plan of a marker. They all agreed on a stake with a cross-piece —as should bear the name of the owner. After much discussion, each child giving his defense of his own plan, it was decided that the upright pieces should be fifteen inches long by two inches wide, and that the cross-piece should be three inches wide and twelve inches long. So the whole school went to the carpenter shop, demolished an old dry goods box for lumber and went to work measuring and sawing and nailing. Not one of them so much as suspected that he had had a lesson in drawing, a lesson in arithmetic and a lesson in manual training. Of course, they talked all the time, to each other and to the teacher, but the talk was all of what they were doing. One boy perhaps vaguely feeling the influence of past generations of school children, asked if he might whistle as he worked at the carpenter's bench. "Certainly," said the teacher. And no one thought it at all surprising that McIver should whistle in school!

• • •

Each part of the work of making the stakes was assigned to a particular child. The assignments were written on the blackboard by the teacher. No word was spoken. The older children read their own orders, or whatever they may be called, and read the others to the younger children. Ambition to be able to read their own orders made it necessary for the tiny tads to learn to read. They simply couldn't get along without it. So a little sentence appeared on the blackboard: "I have a garden." And it was read aloud, and then everybody made the word "seed" with the cut out letters on the table. But there was no class in reading and no recitation in arithmetic, or no semblance of the conventional school. (It may be mentioned here that this first session of the school was begun and held before the publication in America of the first exposition of the work of Mme. Montessorri).

• • •

On the third day it was too wet to garden, so grains of corn were put in wet blotting paper to germinate and some beans that were put in damp earth on the first day are examined. They have sprouted! The teacher speaks of the baby bean, the seed coat, the two leaves, the stem and root, and she writes the word "see" on the blackboard. Then "see the potato," and then they model a potato in clay, and they draw pictures of the bean on paper and color them—a very fine game.

• • •

At 10:30 the teacher announces recess, for even this teacher was not able entirely to rid herself of the conventional ideas of the old school. But before the fifteen minutes was up the children had slipped back to their work. It wasn't long until the "recess" had to be abandoned because the children said they couldn't afford to take the time from what they were doing.

REMBRANDT

BY DR. FRANK CRANE.

(Copyright, 1913, by Frank Crane.)

A curious light is thrown upon the money value of human genius or labor by the recent sale of Rembrandt's "Bathsheba" for $200,000 or thereabouts.

We speak of what a man's work is worth, say that Sound-so is not getting as much money as he ought, and wonder whether any man can really earn a million dollars.

The fact is that money is, ordinarily, and in the general run of affairs, an accepted standard of values. But it is neither scientific, just nor perfect. Often it is legally paid over for nothing at all, as when one dies and leaves a shiftless son a fortune; and often work of the very highest use to the world is paid for by no money or a ridiculous pittance, how fantastic is the money standard, for instance, in the case of Rembrandt Harmenszoon van Rijn, the world-master in the use of light and shadow in painting!

His greatest work is supposed to be the picture called "The Night Watch," which all visitors to the Ryks Museum at Amsterdam never forget, as the white hand of the central figure seems to reach out from the canvas to greet the beholder.

The "Night Watch" is priceless. Enough money probably could not be got together to purchase it. What it is "worth" may be conjectured by the mathematically inclined from the price of the "Bathsheba" which is 58 by 76 centimetres. "The Night Watch" is 3.59 by 4.35 metres. Figure it out yourself and let us know how much per thumbnail square Rembrandt is worth.

The two paintings are of about the same period, 1642-1643.

It would look as if a man who could produce stuff as valuable as this must have lived in imperial splendor and have had goldfish for breakfast. There was no leveling democracy those days, but all the glory of noble-born magnificent ones.

The facts are that thirteen years after painting these two masterpieces his goods were sold at auction by the law because he could not pay his debts. He died poor, because he could no more find any one to sit for a portrait.

The "connoisseurs" of that time thought his work too sombre. The people with money in their jeans dropped him, as he was no longer the fad.

"Rembrandt," says Emile Michel, "belongs to the breed of artists which can have no posterity. His place is with the Michelangelos, the Shakespeares, the Beethovens."

Yet, after that auction, writes Walter Armstrong, he was "stripped of all the property he had accumulated in the historic house in the Breestraat, and for the rest of his life was a sort of nomad, shifting his lodgings with uncomfortable frequency, carrying with him nothing but the materials of art."

All that men could say of him when he died is found in the register of the Werter-Kerk of Amsterdam: "Tuesday, Oct. 8, 1669; Rembrandt van Rijn, painter, on the Roozegraft opposite the Doolhof. Leaves two children."

An Interesting Suggestion On the Western and Atlantic Road

Editor The Journal:

Suppose the state of Georgia leases or sells a part of her railway terminal lands at Chattanooga to a company that will pay 4 per cent on a five million dollar investment, the state taking fifty-year bonds. Then, make the same trade for the Atlanta terminals. These companies would build up and improve the properties. Take this ten million dollars of bonds and either build a road to the sea with them or buy the A. B. & A. road which might be bought for fifteen million dollars, including its coal or iron properties. This road would give Georgia connection at Birmingham, Ala., with all the western roads, would give her connection at Chattanooga with all the northwestern roads, Atlanta with the eastern roads and Brunswick with the sea.

Suppose we lease both of these roads to the L. & N. for twenty-five years at one hundred and fifty thousand dollars per month, which would be cheap. In the twenty-five years such a lease would bring to the *state forty-five million dollars rent. Use fifty thou*sand dollars per month for schools and the other one hundred thousand dollars per month to buy up or retire the bonds. In less than twenty-five years the state would own both roads and would owe nothing on them. Furthermore, they would have redeemed and paid for the ten million dollars of bonds that were on the terminal property. While this terminal property brings in nothing now by this plan it would net the state annually four hundred thousand dollars on the ten million dollars of bonds.

Figure the four hundred thousand dollars interest on these ten million of bonds, added to the one million eight hundred thousand dollars rent for both roads and you have a net two million, two hundred thousand dollars per year. Deduct interest on all the bonds which will be six hundred thousand dollars, and six hundred thousand dollars for schools, will leave one million dollars per year to redeem all of the fifteen million of bonds and clear all the property of debt, besides it would leave ten million dollars to pay all the balance of the state's debt, or build branch lines.

Yours truly,

I. J. EADY.

Senator Smith's Service

Editor Journal:

It was my privilege to hear the address of Senator Hoke Smith to the joint session of the legislature, and from the enthusiastic indorsement given it by packed house and galleries, it may well be doubted if a political servant ever gave more satisfactory account of his stewardship. As a Democrat, a Georgian, a southerner and an American, my soul thrilled with pride at the recital of his work and accomplishments within the less than brief two years since he became a mem*ber* of the senate. Even those who have opposed him most strenuously in state politics should have the very memory of it swallowed up in gratification at the splendid service he has rendered in the national councils.

No interest of the party or the people has been too small to enlist his active support; no enemy too powerful to daunt his courage, or deter his active opposition.

With the spirit of unselfish service he has consecrated his great wisdom, superb strength and indomitable energy to the promotion of the best interests of both state and nation. Within a marvelously short time he has become one of the party's acknowledged leaders, and one of the nation's most commanding figures. Little wonder there is that Senator Lodge, one of the ablest Republican members of the body, declared that in Hoke Smith the national Democracy had made the greatest acquisition to her strength in the senate that she had experienced in twenty years.

Within the recent past the tide of partisanship has run high in Georgia, to the great injury of both *state and party. But unless partisanship shall out*weigh patriotism, unless personal envy and animosity shall insist upon being gratified at the expense of the public weal, unless covetousness of official station shall refuse to acknowledge exalted worth, and unless the love of strife shall be preferred to the perpetuation of present peace, no man will oppose or encour*age opposition to Hoke Smith ...o, by every* endowment of nature, is fitted to serve and will continue to serve Georgia as none other of her many able and illustrious sons is prepared to do.

Respectfully,

E. L. MARTIN.

U. S. INCREASES FUND FOR THE GEORGIA CORN CLUB

State Must Show Sufficient Interest in Project, However

The United States Department of Agriculture has agreed to increase its appropriations for farm demonstration work and the corn club work in Georgia to approximately $50.000, if the state itself shows sufficient interest in the project.

Phil G. Campbell, of Athens, originator of the Corn Club movement, is in the city today, trying to secure the passage by the house of an appropriation of $15,000 for agricultural, experimental and demonstration work, and if this appropriation is granted, the state will benefit by the enlarged appropriation from the government.

The appropriations committee has recommended the granting of the aount named.

Mr. Campbell spoke before the delegates to the Georgia Chamber of Commerce meeting Wednesday morning, and at that time read a letter from United States Commissioner Knapp, promising the increased appropriations.

Commissioner Knapp expressed much interest in the Georgia work and was particularly solicitous about the boll weevil question.

HOUSE TAKES COGNIZANCE OF ATTACK ON DR. SOULE

Blackburn's Article in Fancier-Farmer Brings Resolution From Connor

Cognizance of a recent attack upon Dr. A. M. Soule as president of the Georgia Agricultural college at Athens by the Southern Fancier-Farmer, an agricultural publication edited by Benjamin M. Blackburn, of Atlanta, was taken by a resolution introduced in the house of representatives Wednesday morning by Representative Conner, of Spalding county. The resolution refers to the charges generally, and would require Dr. Soule and Mr. Blackburn to appear before the appropriations committee of the house for a thorough investigation. It would hold up the appropriations to the state agricultural college until the matter has been sifted.

This resolution will lay upon the table for a day and be called before the house for vote on Thursday.

The matter in the Fancier-Farmer to which the resolution refers appeared in the July issue of that publication.

Dr. Soule has been at the head of the state agricultural college since its renaissance several years ago, and has been credited by his numerous admirers in all parts of Georgia with the greatest proportion of the credit for what the college has done under his administration. His friends contend that he has labored honestly and efficiently to win the confidence of the farming population of Georgia to the advanced farming method which the college advocates and teaches. They declare that no man can do a big and constructive work without laying himself open to attacks from critics of various degrees. Dr. Soule has been criticised before, they assert, and they believe that he will be upheld again as he has been upheld repeatedly in the past.

CREATION OF TATE COUNTY IS FAVORED BY COMMITTEE

Only Three Other New County Bills Remain to Be Disposed Of

Tate county, with Fairmont as its county seat, was favorably recommended to the house by the committee on constitutional amendments. The Warner county proposition was killed at the same hearing Tuesday afternoon, and so reported to the solons on reconvenement.

The counties from which Tate is to be made, should the committee's report be sustained, are Gilmer, Pickens, Cherokee, Bartow and Gordon.

When the new county hearings were called Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock there were fully 400 people on the floor and in the galleries. Scores sat in the windows, while still more stood in the doorways, around the walls, in the aisles and crowded ten deep around the speaker's stand until the capacity of the big chamber was taxed to its utmost, and Chairman Shelby Myrick, of Chatham, experienced more difficulty than usual in keeping order.

BIG WARNER DELEGATION.

When the Warner county hearing, the first to be taken up, was concluded, it developed that a vast majority of those present were there either for or against this proposed amendment that fared so badly at the hands of the committee. The vote was unanimous against it. Scarcely a hundred people were present during the Tate arguments, and Tate, though with seemingly less interest manifested, met its cause, out.

But three more new county propositions remain to be heard, and these will be disposed of at one time on Thursday afternoon. They are for the creation of the counties of Lamar, Hansel and Norwood.

THREE APPOINTMENTS SENT TO THE SENATE

Owing to Liquor Shipment Bill ,They Were Postponed Until Friday

Three appointments—two to city court judgeships and one for solicitor of a city court—were sent to the senate Wednesday by Governor Slaton.

Owing to the fact that the senate was engaged with the consideration of the Hixon-Searcy anti-liquor shipment bill up to the hour of adjournment the governor's nominations were not reached Wednesday. They will be taken up in executive session Thursday and confirmed.

Following are the appointments:

Thomas Eason, to be judge of the city court of McRae for a term of four years from August 3, 1913.

D. R. Pearce, to be judge of the city court of Pulaski county for a term of four years from March 1, 1914.

MORE RAIN THURSDAY, IS OFFICIAL FORECAST

Although it was still pleasantly cool Wednesday, the mercury has begun to climb agin. It was 80 degrees about 1 o'clock by the weather man's thermometer, and will be about the same Thursday.

The rains have made the last day or two cooler than is ordinary for this time of the year. There have been showers all over the state, and the forecast for Atlanta is for more rain tonight or Thursday.

Telephone Girls Give Alarm And Applaud While Officers Battle With Negro Burglars

Young Women at Atlanta Exchange Have Exciting Time When Negroes Break in Soda Water Stand After Chocolate Drops

"Hello! Hello! Is that police headquarters? This is Central at the Atlanta telephone exchange on Edgewood avenue. Say, some burglars have just broken into this Greek soda water stand here on the other corner, and if you hurry you can catch them."

This call reached the police at 2:30 o'clock Wednesday morning.

Two minutes later Assistant Chief Jett, Captain Mayo, Call Officers Adams and Watson, and Plain Clothes Officer Gresham were racing in an automobile to the corner of Edgewood avenue and Ivy street.

One negro, standing outside the soda drink place as a lookout, gave the alarm and escaped when he saw the police coming. Two other negroes rushed out just as the police jumped from their car. Both were chased, the telephone girls looking on from their upstairs window across the street. One negro was shot in the leg and so was captured. The other got away for a time, but was cornered in a basement on Houston street. When the police returned with their prisoners, the telephone girls applauded enthusiastically. It "been a real thriller.

The soda water stand is conducted under the name of Mitchell Kollis. So far as the police could ascertain, nothing but chocolate candy, salted peanuts and cigars were gathered by the burglars. These were strewn along the line of flight taken by one of the negroes toward Houston street. Some chocolates were found beside him in the basement, say the police. He showed fight at first, when Officer Gresham discovered him, but became submissive when Captain Mayo appeared on the scene. He denied any connection with the burglary. His name is Dave Smith.

Will Walker, the other negro who was caught, was chased around the building by Captain Mayo, who lost him in the darkness just as Officer Watson saw him coming through the gloom. Watson called on him to halt, but the negro continued to advance, says the officer, whereupon the latter shot him, the wound being a slight one. The negro was taken to Grady hospital for the rest of the night, and was delivered to the police Wednesday morning.

Some of the telephone central girls were resting, off duty, when they were aroused by the sound of breaking glass across the street. They notified headquarters immediately.

The Inman Park pharmacy at 589 Edgewood avenue, was burglarized earlier in the night, and the burglary was reported at 12:30 o'clock. At 1:30 o'clock came the report that John S. Sawyer's grocery store, 44 Edgewod avenue, had been entered and robbed. The police charge these other robberies against the negroes from they caught. The losses from the pharmacy and grocery were not stated.

HEALTHY HAIR, FREE FROM DANDRUFF

Try Parisian Sage. It makes dull, harsh, unattractive hair soft—fluffy—abundant and radiant with life.

Unsightly, matted, scraggy hair is a sign of neglect—of dandruff the hair destroyer.

Parisian Sage is a scientific preparation, absolutely harmless, based on a thorough knowledge of what is needed to cleanse the scalp and hair—keeping them perfectly healthy—stop scalp itch and falling hair, and make hair grow. It supplies hair needs.

BATTLED COP TO STOP ARREST OF HIS SON

Because he fought a policeman who was about to arrest his son, Jackson I. Terry, a night watchman, was arrested Wednesday. Terry is sixty-five years old and lives at 294 Whitehall street.

Philip Maier complained to the police that young Terry had stolen a $20 bill from his (Maier's) room. Maier was moving from the neighborhood to another address, he said, and ran across some old books which he told young Terry and a boy companion they could have. Instead of taking the books, he charged, the boys took the $20 bill.

Call Officer Gorman went to the scene of the disturbance and was about to arrest young Terry, when the lad's father interfered.

LEGISLATURE MAY LET MILITIA POLICE RACE

Chatham Delegation Asks Troops to Protect Crowds at Auto Races

A resolution designed to authorize the Savannah troops of the national guard of Georgia to aid in protecting the public and preserving order during the grand prize and Vanderbilt cup automobile races to be held in Savannah on November 24 and 27, will be introduced in the house Thursday by the members of the Chatham county delegation.

The military law, as passed last year, does not permit the governor to order out troops except in cases of an insurrection, and eevn in instances of that kind he must declare martial law in the community affected before he can order out the soldiers.

It has been found both desirable and necessary to have the soldiers guard the Savannah race course during the big automobile races, and the proposed resolution gives permission to the troops to again perform this service, but voluntarily.

BLALOCK ENTERS REVENUE SERVICE ON AUGUST 1

A. O. Blalock, of Fayetteville, will enter upon his duties as collector of internal revenue for Georgia on August 1, succeeding Henry S. Jackson, of Atlanta, a Taft appointee, who recently tendered his resignation.

Mr. Blalock's nomination for this office was confirmed several weeks ago by the United States senate. His commission has been issued and he has received an order for the office to be turned over to him on the first of next month.

HOUSE CONSPICUOUS FOR LACK OF LEADER

So Representative McCarthy, of Chatham, Tells His Home Folks

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

SAVANNAH, Ga., July 23.—Representative Joseph McCarthy, of Chatham county, who is at home for a few days, says the thing that has impressed him most at this session of the legislature is the failure of the session so far to develop a real leader. He says the house is wasting a lot of time because of this.

Mr. McCarthy is serving his fourth term in the house and is in a position to compare the work of this session with others. He will return to Atlanta tonight.

Why Endure Sore Feet Here is Positive Easy Cure

The following is said to be the surest and quickest cure known to science for all foot ailments: "Dissolve two tablespoonfuls of Calocide compound in a basin of warm water. Soak the feet in this for fully fifteen minutes, gently rubbing the sore parts." The effect is really wonderful. All soreness goes instantly; the feet feel delightful. Corns and callouses can be peeled right off. It gives immediate relief for sore bunions, sweaty smelly and aching feet. A twenty-five cent box of Calocide is said to be sufficient to cure the worst feet. It works through the pores and removes the cause of the trouble. Don't waste time on uncertain remedies. Any druggist has Calocide compound in stock or he can get it in a few hours from his wholesale house.—(Advt.)

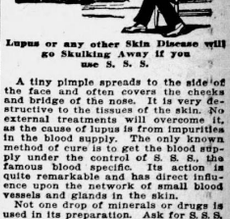
Lupus Worst Form of Skin Diseases

Here is a Home Treatment that Overcomes even Worst Cases.



Lupus or any other Skin Disease will go Skulking Away if you use S. S. S.

A tiny pimple spreads to the side of the face and often covers the cheeks and bridge of the nose. It is very destructive to the tissues of the skin. No external treatments will overcome it, as the cause of lupus is from impurities in the blood supply. The only known method of cure is to get the blood supply under the control of S. S. S., the famous blood specific. Its action is quite remarkable and has direct influence upon the network of small blood vessels and glands in the skin.

Not one drop of minerals or drugs is used in its preparation. Ask for S. S. S. and insist upon having it. For illustrated book on skin diseases write The Swift Specific Co., 193 Swift Laboratory, Atlanta, Ga. Do not allow some zealous clerk to larrup the atmosphere in eloquence over something "just as good" as S. S. S. Beware of all substitutes.

Twenty-two Lingerie and Crepe de Chine Dresses for Juniors Are $10.75, Reduced From $17.50, $20.00 and $27.50

===Junior Department

The occasion of this price is that we would clear away these finer dresses—so we invite your help. The lingerie dresses are all white, and all as beautiful as exquisite laces, embroideries and hand embroidery and ribbons, applied and arranged by artists, could make them. The crepe de chine dresses are white, light blue and tan—you will find yokes and sleeves touched with little flower bouquets and with rich, heavy laces. All priced at $10.75, when their worth is measured by $17.50, $20.00 and $27.50.

Girls' kimonos, sizes fourteen and eighteen years, in figured and flowered lawns, that were $1.75 and $2.00 are marked for tomorrow $1.00. The smallar sizes, two to twelve years, in crepes and lawns, that were $1.50 are 75c

There Will Be No More News of Junior Suits Such As This---$10 for $20 to $30 Suits

Four are white serges that were $27.50.

Eight are novelty suits of one shade and style and another—not one of them was less than $20.00; the highest priced was $30.00.

And with these are four misses' three-piece suits, sizes twelve and fourteen years, in blue serge, very attractively fashioned. These were $22.50. So in all, only sixteen may share these savings.

RENEWED BEAR PRESSURE CAUSED BREAK IN COTTON

Market in New York Closed 9 to 12 Points Down from Previous Close

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, July 23.—As Liverpool was a shade better than due this morning the local cotton market showed a steady advance with from 1 point lower to 2 points net higher. Weather news was still a feature but showed little change from yesterday when Texas and Oklahoma reports of yesterday's rains. Local bear pressure was more active than it has been in some time and demand was light on the spot chiefly from shorts.

Estimated receipts at all the ports today 3,000 bales against 2,168 last week and 1,260 last year.

A little improvement in the early afternoon on reports of high temperatures in Texas was followed by a reaction to almost the day's low est figures under selling influenced by rumors of an unsatisfactory condition Friday and local predictions of cooler weather in Texas.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON.

(By Associated Press.)

NEW ORLEANS, July 23.—Cotton futures opened steady, unchanged to 1 point up, compared with the close of yesterday. Cables were about as expected, but the near months showed weakness after the first call and, on offering, there was about evenly divided between July and August and appeared to come chiefly from liquidating longs. The weather map noted considerable rain in the belt and the forecast promised unsettled and showery weather over nearly the entire cotton region, which caused some selling of the near months to the new crop months. At the end of the first half hour of business prices were 10 to 19 points under Friday's final figures, August displaying the most weakness.

Toward the middle of the morning the summer months were decidedly weak, July showing a loss of 30 points and August and October a loss of 25 points. Liquidation of long cotton was held to be almost entirely the cause of the break with the two near months, July alone having amounted to nearly 75 points, or three-quarters of a cent a pound. The new crop months showed little more than the old and at their lowest were only 10 points below Friday's close. Offerings were plentiful and their purchase finally checked it and caused a reaction of 3 to 7 points from the bottom, which, however, did not hold and by well. As soon the market was quiet and steady at a net decline of 6 to 23 points.

Saving and Investing

YOUR MONEY.

BY JOHN M. OSKISON

It is said that the small man in Europe pulls the big men out of the hole he has made for himself financially. In a time of crisis the investor with his hundreds can be depended upon to come into the market and bid actively for the securities which he has learned to regard as safe. By his bidding, persistently and in great numbers, the small investor reaches a market which has been demoralized by the overselling of the big men.

Fortunately the same thing is coming to be true in this country.

Lately we have seen the big men of Wall street—the big buyers and sellers, that is—sitting on the docket and bemoaning their sad lot while the small investors in numbers have spent their time going over their cash accounts and putting down a finger here and a thumb there, and saying to a broker whose office he not suffer when asked to buy five shares of a good stock or two $100 bonds:

"Get me a little piece of that, and that."

And those brokers have been going to the floor of the exchange to fill the orders. In total amount these fractional lot buyers have taken out of the market a big volume of securities. And since most of them are buyers for real investment, it will be found later that the traders that price variations can be easier managed with the smaller volume left in their hands.

You are the small investors—you who put from $500 to $5,000 into bonds or into high-class stocks and have thereby earned the right to be classed as investment stocks. You are exhibiting a better sense of balance than are the professional Wall street men right now. You are buying securities at bargain prices, and you will hold them until people who are bidding for them realize their offers to a point where you can't afford to hold them any longer.

This is a particularly good time to be a typical small investor.

INTERESTING NEWS AND GOSSIP OF THE MARKETS

Weather Reports, Crop Advices, Expert Opinions and Newspaper Comment

COTTON GOSSIP

Times-Democrat says: July gyrations stirred the lethargic New Orleans talent out of a half slumber. Ring leaders in the game, with a trembling of the kind, and for a time lacked an adequate explanation of the market's action. All along, it has been understood that the strength of the New Orleans following was largely due to the presence of concentrated long interest, held by a few men who were expected to stand pat and receive cotton, should there be pressure or a scattered long interest held by men who were generally supposed to be on the backs of other players. So confident were the riders that July would be protected to the last, that they neglected the small, but important, formality of overhauling the pulse of the market in session and out. Early yesterday the fact became known to few than that the concentrated long interest in July had been liquidated, and the rumor began to spread and the ring-side to watch the fun when the "riders" should wake up. The quick upward swing and the sensitive nerve was not touched until after the lunch hour. Then pandemonium broke loose. There were not enough bids to satisfy speculative long contracts, but as everybody insisted on getting something, it was done quickly and the same moment, fluctuations were violent. The trade generally turned its attention to August. It is well within the range of the possible that a few of the 2,900 bales taken up on July contracts may be distributed on August, but it is also possible that the talent may shy away from August because of the concentrated long interest which new crop cotton is now showing up, as there is a disposition in some quarters to believe that [illegible] will be quickly followed by a free movement than is usual.

Map shows rains in Texas generally over the entire eastern half of belt and Oklahoma. Fair to partly cloudy weather prevailed over the same moment.

Wives Who Heard Love

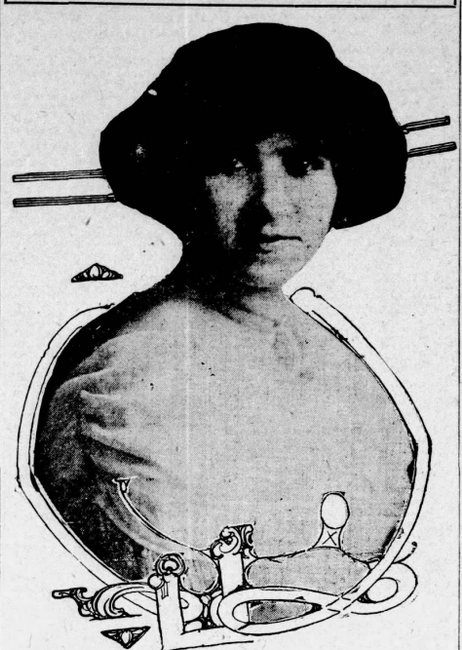
("Women and Other Enigmas," published by Richard G. Badger.)

It seems to be well-nigh impossible—said my friend the Cynic—for a married woman to realize that love is a spiritual quality which grows through exercise, and not a material possession. She seems rather to regard it as a piece of personal property—something indeed like pie—which only remains perfect and complete so long as she keeps it in her pantry out of sight of the hungry eyes that it might tempt, and even though it can give her nothing but the miserly joy of a conviction of sole ownership.

She cannot rid herself of the fear that if a single fragment be given away she will have lost something and that if she should share it, it would all be eaten up, with no crumb left for herself.

Too often, indeed, this morbid distrust seems to make her fear to indulge herself in any access of her husband's affections and thus follows the natural result of their dimunition, since an unused function speedily atrophies and a caged lark has little desire to sing.

OUT OF TOWN VISITOR



MISS EVA STEPHENS, OF DUBLIN
Who is being pleasantly entertained as the guest of Miss Lillian Daley.

WOMAN'S INTEREST IN KINDERGARTEN BILL

The kindergarten bill will come before the educational committee of the house Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. The session will be held in the room just opposite Superintendent M. L. Brittain's office at the capitol, and all the women who are interested in the matter are urged to lend their influence to securing a favorable report.

The kindergarten bill has been fostered by the Fine Kindergarten association and by the Mothers' congress, whose members have worked unceasingly in behalf of the bill.

Mrs. James R. Little, president of the Georgia Congress of Mothers, writes the following:

"The kindergarten bill introduced in the senate last week was referred to the committee on education and passed favorably by that committee on Thursday of last week. Monday of this week the bill was introduced in the house and will be heard before its educational committee Thursday of this week at 2:30 p. m. Mr. George Baldwin, of Savannah, and Miss Oppenheim, of Savannah, were the out-of-town speakers for this bill and will return for Thursday's hearing.

Every woman interested in this bill, whether a part of an organization or just an individual interested in the welfare of the child, is urged to meet with this committee tomorrow to show that the interest is a general one to make kindergarten work a part of the educational system, because we recognize the value of expert training in the development of child life.

"It is hoped that officers and members of Parent-Teachers' associations will feel the importance and necessity of their presence at this meeting. The speakers will be Mr. George Baldwin, Miss Oppenheim, Mrs. Smith, Dr. Rabbi Marx, Mrs. W. S. Kriegshaber, Miss Allen and others."

Children's Party

An interesting event of the afternoon to a number of the very young set was the party at which little Miss Rosalie Gunby was hostess at the home of her grandfather, Mr. Clark Howell, Sr.

Twenty-four guests were invited to the party which celebrated her fourth anniversary.

On the arrival of the guests they were presented pink tissue paper sunbonnets and aprons, which they donned becoming a charming part of an affair in which all the details were in keeping with the little pink sunbonnet maids.

The prettily appointed table from which the sweets were served had tiny place cards hand-painted with sunbonnet girls and in the center a great plateau of pink sweet peas were the appropriate flowers. Lemonade was served under a little arbor screened with pink roses, and the big Jack Horner pie was made of pink tissue paper.

There were novel souvenirs and other amusing features making the happy afternoon.

NORTH GEORGIA VIEWS AS SEEN BY ATLANTA ARTISTS

The "Painters from White Path," is the title won by the group of young women who spent two weeks in the mountains of north Georgia capturing sunshine and blue hills, purple shadows and green trees on canvases which are being exhibited this week at the Cole Book company.

The young women worked under the direction of Miss Virginia Wooley, spending the days in the out of doors, setting up when the mists still shrouded the mountain tops and working when the late afternoon was putting even more vivid colors on the landscape.

A number of the sketches show delightful views of Ellijay, the county seat and the nearest town to White Path where the painters were treated with the never-failing courtesy, the north Georgian shows the visitor.

With the mountains as a background, the little village with its red roofs and white houses and broad fields narrowing to tree bordered roadways, furnished a charming subject for the brushes of the artists, particularly interesting studies being made by Mrs. Lee Worsham and Miss Louise Mellichamp.

The canvases are handled broadly with a feeling for light and shadow which makes them as interesting from an artistic standpoint as from a personal one. The collection will be at the Cole Book company throughtout the week, a cordial invitation being extended those interested to call and see the pictures.

Mrs. Adair's Spend-the-Day Party

Mrs. Forrest Adair, Jr., was hostess at a spend-the-day party Wednesday at her home on Juniper street.

Garden flowers in artistic arrangement formed the centerpiece of the beautifully appointed luncheon table, and were used in profusion about the pretty rooms.

Mrs. Adair's guests included Miss Helen Hobbs, Miss Kathryn Gordon, Miss Gertrude Johnston, of Charleston; Miss Margaret Haverty, Miss Laura Cowles, Miss Marie Pappenheimer and Mrs. Gerald Smith, of Baltimore.

Bathroom Accessories and Summer Comfort

There is no time in the year when the bathroom is as much in use as in midsummer. During the hot days the shower bath and the cold tub are in constant demand.

Have you arranged your bathroom so that you and your family can have the benefit of modern convenience?

Have you an adequate shower bath? Have you soap, sponge, toothbrush and drinking glass holders? Have you glass shelves, toilet preparations and a medicine cabinet? Have you bath mats and a good supply of rough towels?—and so on, ad lib.?

There are many bathroom accessories on the market planned for convenience and sanitation. The list is far too long to enumerate here, but, if you are not already entirely familiar with what is to be had in this line, turn to the advertising columns of THE JOURNAL and learn something on the subject. You will be astonished to find how much real comfort you can procure for yourself and your family at very moderate cost.

The Atlanta Journal
COVERS DIXIE LIKE THE DEW

What Anne Rittenhouse Says

A woman wrote in to ask what was the best choice of hats if one could only afford to buy two for the entire summer. She had a dark blue gown, several white frocks, skirts, and blouses, and one or two afternoon gowns that had flashes of color. It was difficult, she said, to decide on the hat that would go with most of her gowns. She could only afford two, and she wondered if the money should be divided between a plain affair for the morning and an elaborate one for the afternoon.

The answer given to her will possibly interest a large number of women, because the query is universal and not local. Every woman has to decide this question at the beginning of the season and it is especially difficult in summer, because one has such varied costumes, owing to the exigencies of the weather. The advice given to her was to have one black and one white hat—all black and all white. This may not appeal to many women who have a passion for color and indulge in it at the slightest excuse and whenever in the presence of a five dollar bill. Yet, the fundamental creed that all women should learn is that color is an extravagant purchase. The well-dressed woman knows this.

Black and White Hats.

When a woman wishes to wear gowns with color in them, and different girdles and stockings and even colored ribbon in her under-linen, she should never buy a hat with a decided color in it unless she has money enough to get other hats. Otherwise she will be constantly vexed and irritated because of the time and trouble it takes to match up one's color scheme to a hat.

It is true that the department shops sell so many hats at small prices these days that one can indulge in a fanciful color at slight expense, but it is not a wise practice.

Begin at a good begining and get one black and one white hat, and then, if you see an exceptionally good bargain, and have the money to spend on it, pick up a colored hat which will give some rest to your soul and happiness to your mind—if you are after color.

It is easy to see why these two hats give so much satisfaction. No color is proof against the summer sun. Roses and ribbon are luxuries in the day and the last of August finds them too faded to be worn. The all white hat has no fo-lo-loose and the all black hat may fade a bit in the straw, but this is easily remedied by a touch of ink or shoe blacking, a method of renewal that not even the richest women scorn to use.

The Trimming of Hats.

The shape of these hats must depend on the face of the wearer. Nothing else counts in fashion this season but the variety in millinery that no woman need choose an ugly shape in the name of style. The hat with the slight brim is always advisable for summer, because it is a protection from the glare, and the new sailor shapes have brims that conform to the majority of brows.

The very new idea is to have a slightly full crown of panne velvet attached to a brim of Milan straw and a fantasie or a bow projecting from the back. Of course, velvet gets dutsy, but if you wish to be fashionable you must take this chance.

Whatever the shape of hat you choose, do not load it down with trimming. Avoid roses and stiff quills, and if you use buckles let them be made of material to match the hat. The woman who likes a black buckle against a white hat may follow her choice.

Remember that hatpins must also be black and white, and that their heads must be of paste pearl.

Bridge Tea

Mrs. Charles Kauffman and her sister, Miss Winter, entertained at an auction bridge party this afternoon at the home of the former in Ansley park.

The honor guests were Mrs. J. E. DeBelle, of Jacksonville; Mrs. W. F. Niel, of Chattanooga, who are visiting Mrs. Kauffman, and Mrs. Edward DeBelle, of Florida, who is the guest of Mrs. G. O. Eastman.

The rooms in which the card tables were placed were fragrant with petunias and asters, 5 o'clock tea being served at the conclusion of the game in the dining room, where the same lovely garden flowers were used.

The trophies in the game were pink silk stockings, and the honor guests were presented beaded coin purses.

Invited to meet the visitors were Mrs. Eastman, Mrs. S. H. Huff, Mrs. Martin Dunbar, Mrs. Sheppard, Mrs. Charles Clark, Mrs. R. L. Walker, Mrs. Frank Walker and Mrs. Everett Ginn.

The Evening Story

Reality

(Copyright, 1913, by W. Werner.)

Anne Dillon had to run to her train at last. She reached it just in time to scramble up the steps with an unhappy concern for her numerous parcels. Dropping into a seat she counted them anxiously.

"Satin—shadow lace—violet powder—handkerchiefs — ribbon for Dorothy—petticoat for Mrs. McCann. Thank goodness, they're all safe. And so am I. Well!"

Anne straightened her hat and, taking a deep breath of relief, looked around the car. It was crowded with shoppers, who, like herself, had taken advantage of the day to do their spring buying in the city. Most of them had come from the towns along the road. They would begin to drop off presently and then there would be more breathing room. The car seemed twice filled with them and their parcels. The size and number of the parcels no less than the jaded looks or the women amused Anne. Everybody was exchanging confidences with everybody else.

Tracey's wife told the whole story.

"Thank goodness," thought Anne, "that I have no companion. Think of riding sixty miles and listening to such jargon all the way. I shouldn't sleep again in a week. A day's shopping of your own is hard enough without having to hear about other people's. Not one of those women is as perfectly suited as I. And there's nobody for me to buy for. The appropriateness or serviceability of my purchases, and no one to grumble about my spending so much on mere clothes. So far I am fortunate. But—"

She sighed. It was rather stupid after all going home to just Dorothy and Mrs. McCann. Dorothy would smile over her yards and yards of rose-colored ribbon and Mrs. McCann would exclaim over the gay petticoat. "If you think it's not too young for an old lady like myself, darlin', but they would not care particularly about her things, because after all Mrs. McCann was only the housekeeper and Dorothy was her schoolgirl daughter who helped out at light tasks when there was need. They performed loyal service and were paid for it. Even the big black cat, Omar Khayyam, seemed nearer.

"He'll be waiting on the front steps for me when I drive up in the cab," Anne thought, "and he'll rub against me and cry and leave a lot of his long silken hair on my tailored skirt, for, with all the brushings he gets, he does shed his hair dreadfully. He'll lead me into the house and go to sleep immediately upon his cushion and stay asleep until Dorothy puts a saucer of milk under his nose. For he's only a cat, and he can't understand human loneliness or longing." She bit her lips savagely. "Oh, dear me, I ought to be the happiest woman in the world going home after a successful day's buying of pretty clothes to such a perfectly comfortable household as Omar and Dorothy and Mrs. McCann make for me!"

In spite of her comforts Anne was far from being the happiest woman in the world. All day she had been struggling with a swarm of memories that had persistently tormented her. For in her life, as in the life of every mature woman, had been the one man above all desired of her, and on a spring day in Westmore she had lost him forever. It had all come of a moment's jealousy and girl anger, but she had sent him to the very woman she feared, and had never seen again or heard a thing concerning him. She had been left with a life long regret, to make the best of it.

Other men had come and been sent about their business. She would have none of them. As the years passed Tracey Talbot had become something more than a memory; he had become the ideal which she cherished. Of all women alive she envied his wife most. Tracey Talbot's wife must be a happy and fortunate woman. She had been handsome to begin with—far handsomer than Anne—and Anne pictured her as growing riper and lovelier every year. There was nothing like contentment with one's lot to make a woman bloom. Cherished and adored, Mrs. Talbot must by this time have become an ample, charming matron with perfect confidence in the world's geniality and her husband's heart. Tracey Talbot had been a wonderful lover. How much more wonderful then must he be as a husband? No man living could compare with him, in Anne's estimation.

"I ought to have married him," she thought, wistfully. "What a fool I was! But I've been thoroughly punished."

She turned her face to the window and gazed out into the darkness as she sighed heavily.

"Beg pardon, but may I sit down here? There seems to be no other seat."

Anne glanced up half startled at the man's abrupt intrusion. At the same time she made room for him by withdrawing still farther into a corner.

Suddenly the newcomer exclaimed: "Why, is it possible? Anne Dillon!"

Anne's heart seemed to turn over. She tried to murmur something as she held her hand unsteadily. He gripped it in his smooth, cool fingers. She heard him draw his breath deeply. He had just come in from the smoker, and the scent of tobacco hung about him. It made him more friendly to Anne than anything else about him.

"A week ago," he said in his easy, well-modulated voice, "I had not even dreamed of being in this part of the country today. But my lady took a fancy to visit some one she used to know, and we came. We are at Mrs Lake's at Alsatia. You remember Lina Agnew? Some extraordinary bargains which they found exploited in last evening's paper sent them shopping this morning. And I accompanied them, and I've seen sights today that have set my very soul out of tune."

Anne was beginning to recover. "I've been shopping, too. Don't I look it?" she asked.

His eyes dwelt on her. "Evidently you don't make an orgy of it."

Anne smiled faintly. "Oh, women do lose their heads a bit when they're all struggling after a bargain. But men, you'll admit, do the same for infinitely greater awards. Shopping to a woman is what politics is to a man. Doesn't your wife tell you so?"

"My wife?" He shrugged his shoulders. "I'm afraid we don't discuss it. I have my politics; she has her shopping. But I never had thought of the two being associated in the way you mentioned."

A light flashed at the window, and the train ran past a long brilliantly lighted street and stopped at a station. For a few moments there was the confusion and bustle of passengers leaving and entering. In the midst of it a woman got up and made her way slowly down the aisle. She was the woman Anne had overheard talking about a matelasse wrap. She was fashionable enough, and distinctly artificial. The whole world and all it offered seemed to have wearied her. Her cheeks were sunken, her eyes were hollow and her mouth drooped. The very sight of her went to one's heart.

Anne had met the woman's eyes, and not altogether as one meets the eyes of a passing stranger. She had felt their inquiring gaze. She turned her face away in annoyance. At that moment she heard the voice again.

"I just thought I'd come back and see who you were talking to, Tracey."

Anne's glance shifted with a jerk.

Tracey stood up.

"You're blocking the aisle, my dear," he said with careful coldness. "This lady is Miss Dillon, of West more. You remember her. My wife, Miss Dillon."

"Miss Dillon!" Mrs. Talbot gave a little shriek and held out her hand. "Certainly I remember her. How do you do, Miss Dillon? What good fortune to see you again."

The train was moving, and she sank into the seat Tracey had occupied. He turned the one ahead and sat down facing them. But he did not look at them. He looked out of the window with a scowl. Mrs. Talbot talked on excitedly.

"We're staying at Lina Agnew's—Lina Lake she is now. I suppose Tracey has told you. We had to come out east and see somebody of the old days. I was fairly hungry. Of course, we've lots of friends out where we are, but they're not like the old ones."

"No, indeed," Anne echoed, faintly.

"You've been shopping, too, I see? Strange we didn't run across you somewhere. It has been very exciting. I got one of those new, materiasse wraps—a black background with a black raised figure, lined with white satin and trimmed with black velvet. I hadn't dared tell Tracey yet.' She lowered her voice. "I expect a scene when I do. As it was I had a struggle to get some of the things I wanted. When a man's dealt out the law to the public as long as Tracey has he gets some very positive ideas. But in any case never take a man shopping. However, you don't have to. You're not married, my dear. She laid a nervous hand over Anne's plaid one. "Don't marry the best man living. You have to give up too much. But you never realize that as fully as you do on a shopping expedition such as mine has been today."

Anne shuddered. She felt suddenly that she wanted to get away from Mrs. Talbot—from those tired eyes with their vistas of things experienced and endured; from Tracey's face with its look of lowering dissatisfaction and dominance. She felt disillusion creeping over her like a chill. Her dream had become reality and the reality was all the more terrible because the dream had been so idyllic. Tracey's wife told the whole story, not by words, but by those tired eyes of hers.

They got off at Alsatia with many warm good-bys and Anne went on alone to Westmore. Dorothy was at the station to meet her. She found Omar waiting, as she expected. Mrs. McCann kissed her.

"I've had a god day, darlin'," she said. "I don't know when you've ever come home so cheer'ful-like."

Anne laughed. She was cheerful. She couldn't deny it. Her life meant something more than it had meant before. For she had tested it in the light of reality. The illusion and the ideal had passed away.

LITTLE STORIES FOR BEDTIME

BY THORNTON W. BURGESS.

(Copyright, 1913, by J. G. Lloyd.)

"Hello, Peter Rabbit! What are you doing way up here and what are you looking so mournful about?"

Peter gave a great start of pleased surprise, but was the first friendly voice he had heard for days and days.

"Hello yourself, Tommy Tit!" shouted Peter joyously. "My, my, my, but I am glad to see you! But what are you doing up here in the Old Pasture yourself?"

Tommy Tit, the Crickadee, hung head down from the tip of a slender branch of a maple tree and winked a saucy bright eye at Peter. "I've got a secret up here," he said.

Now there is nothing in the world Peter Rabbit loves more than a secret. But he cannot keep one to save him. No, sir, Peter Rabbit can no more keep a secret than he can fly. It's a means to His intentions are the very best in the world, but—

Alas! alack! poor Peter's tongue
Is very very loosely hung.

And so because he must talk and will talk every chance he gets, he cannot keep a secret. People who talk too much never can.

"What is your secret?" asked Peter eagerly.

Tommy Tit looked down at Peter and his sharp little eyes twinkled. "It's a nest with six of the dearest little babies in the world in it," he replied.

"Oh, how lovely!" cried Peter "Where is it, Tommy Tit?"

"In a hollow birch stub," replied Tommy, his eyes twinkling more than ever.

"But where is the hollow birch stub?" persisted Peter.

Tommy laughed. "That's my real secret," said he, "and I should tell you if it wouldn't be a secret at all. Now tell me what you are doing up here in the Old Pasture, Peter Rabbit?"

Peter saw that it was of no use to tease Tommy Tit for his secret, so instead he poured out all his own troubles. He told how lonesome he had been in the dear old briar patch on the Green Meadows because he didn't dare to go about for fear of Old Man Coyote, and how at last he had decided to visit the Old Pasture. He told how Hooty the Owl had nearly caught him on his way, and then how ever since his arrival he had been hunted by the big gray old Rabbit so that he could neither eat nor sleep and had become so miserable that at last he had made up his mind to go back to the dear old briar patch.

"Oh!" interrupted Tommy Tit, "I know him; he's old Jed Thumper, the oldest, biggest, crossest Rabbit anywhere around. He's lived in the Old Pasture so long that he thinks he owns it. It's a wonder that he hasn't killed you."

"I guess perhaps he would have only I can run faster than he can," replied Peter, looking a little shamefaced because he had to own up that he ran away instead of fighting.

Tommy Tit laughed. "That's the very wisest thing you could have done," said he. "But why don't you go back to the dear old briar patch in the Green Meadows?"

Peter hesitated and looked a wee bit foolish. Finally he told Tommy Tit all about the two soft, gentle eyes he had seen peeping at him from behind a big fern, and how he wanted to know who the eyes belonged to.

"If that's all you want to know, I can tell you," said Tommy Tit, jumping out into the air to catch a foolish little bug who tried to fly past. "Those eyes belong to little Miss Fuzzytail, and she's the favorite daughter of old Jed Thumper. You take my advice, Peter Rabbit, and trot along home to the old briar patch before you get into any more trouble. There's my wife calling. Yes, my dear, I'm coming! Chickadee-dee-dee!"

And with a wink and a nod to Peter Rabbit off flew Tommy Tit.

CLUB WOMEN TO SUPPORT KINDERGARTEN BILL

An interesting event of the morning was the meeting of the State executive board of the Federation of Woman's clubs which was held at the Woman's club rooms on Baker street.

Mrs. Z. I. Fitzpartick called the meeting, but was unable to attend, and at her request Mrs. W. P. Pattillo presided.

Resolutions were passed during the meeting in hearty commendation of two important bills now pending before the legislature, that of the Taxation reform and the Kindergarten bill.

While the club members are in keenest sympathy with other bills which are under consideration, it was agreed that the most hearty support of club women concentrated on the educational lines which are such a vital issue at present.

Several out of town members of the board were present as well as a full local attendance.

STATE TAX BOARD URGED BY SUNNYSIDE CITIZEN

J. A. Dorsey Says This Is Only Hope of the Treasury

Declaring that only through tax equalization and the establishment of a state tax board will the treasury of Georgia ever be adequate to the needs of the state, J. A. Darsey, of Sunnyside, Ga., has written a strong plea for tax reform in the state.

The deficit in the common school fund prompted Mr. Darsey's argument. He declares that the teachers of the state do need sympathy, and that they should be paid; but gives it as his opinion that "cheap and designing politicians use the situation as a hobby to ride into office upon."

Mr. Darsey is oposed to the movement to levy additional taxes, because he says the taxpayers would have no guarantee that the additional funds will not be diverted from the common school fund in the future as in the past.

"In my opinion," says Mr. Darsey, "tax equalization will raise sufficient funds for all state purposes. There cannot, however, be a satisfactory system without a state board, for it must be apparent to every man who thinks that if we had county boards of equalization there would be greater injustice than under the present system, for each county board would be subject to the influences of local conditions and local politics, and we would have as many systems as there are counties in the state. By all means give us a state board free from local influences and local politics."

Mr. Darsey also suggests that the system of voluntary tax returns is at fault and that if the tax rate is increased, property owners will promptly decrease their returns.

Again Motor Riders Will Attempt to Stage Big Marathon Race

RUN MARATHON TONIGHT IF RAIN DON'T BUTT IN

Racers Are Primed for Big Event at Motordrome—Race 105 Times Around the Quarter-Mile Saucer

The long expected Marathon race will receive another trial tonight if the dark clouds which are now looming up do not carry into effect their threat and again dampen the enthusiasm of the racers and promoters.

The same schedule which was arranged for last evening will be pulled at the motordrome, including the Marathon race of 105 laps around the track.

This Marathon is too big to be run but once a year, and it is probably well that it has suffered one postponement in order to allow the fans to realize just what is going to be pulled. There will be ten riders to circle the saucer at one time, all riding for the five hundred dollar purse which is held out to the winner.

Besides the Marathon there is a good program on which runs as follows:

THE PROGRAM.

The following is the complete program:

Tex Richards against time. One mile. Present record held by Eddie Hasha and Morty Graves. Time, 33 4-5.

One mile to qualify for 2-mile final. Two to qualify in each heat and three in fastest heat.

First Heat—No. 1, Morty Graves; No. 2, Harry Schwartz; No. 3, Billy Shields; No. 4, George Lockner; No. 5, Tex Richards.

Second Heat—No. 6, Freddie Luther; No. 7, George Renel; No. 8, Jock McNeil; No. 9, Henry Lewis; No. 10, Harry Glenn.

Harry Glenn vs. Harry Schwartz. (Special match race.) Two miles, best two out of three heats.

Final Heat of Motordrome Sweepstakes—Two miles.

Second Heat of Special Match Race —Glenn vs. Schwartz.

Third heat of special match race, if necessary.

Big Marathon Race—(26 miles 385 yards.) ten riders to compete. Each rider will have to ride 105 times around the track. Winner to receive cash prize of $500.

Contestants—No. 1, Morty Graves; No. 2, Harry Schwartz; No. 8, Billy Shields; No. 4, George Lockner; No. 5, Tex Richards; No. 6, Freddie Luther; No. 7, George Renel; No. 8, Jock McNeil; No. 9, Henry Lewis; No. 10, Harry Glenn.

Russell Ford: Lost his game yesterday. He was taken out in the seventh inning after allowing five hits and one run during the whole game.

DENT HURLS GRAND GAME

Only Three Hits Made Off Cracker Star—One Turtle to Second Bag

MEMPHIS, Tenn., July 23.—Dent turned the tables on Bill Bernhard's crew on Tuesday afternoon by administering the kalsomine dip in mathematically the same dose as that given the Crackers on the day before.

The Crackers found out "what was doing" with the old Iron Man's delivery right away quick. In the first inning Agler walked from force of habit. Bisland sacrificed and Welchonce singled, also from force of habit. After Alperman flied out, Smith singled, scoring Welchonce. Long scored on Seabough's error of the throw in.

In the third the Crackers got busy again. With one out, Welchonce tripled and strolled in on Long's lift to Schweitzer. After this there was practically nothing doing in the run or the hit line.

Dent had the Memphis team at his mercy, allowing only three scratch hits, and these in different stages of the game, one of which might be termed a single to the pitcher's shins; another, which came in the same inning, was a bad bounce, which went over Bisland's head. The third hit came in the ninth and was also of the infield variety, a roller which barely evaded Bisland.

In fact, Dent pulled more stunts than keeping the hits down. He allowed only thirty men to face him during the game, and he retired the side in one inning on three pitched balls.

Agler, Welchonce and Bisland were also much in evidence defensively, while Smith and Welchonce both rapped out two hits. Welchonce's hits both figured in the scoring.

Larned and Wright Prove "Come Backs"

BOSTON, July 23.—William A. Larned and Beals C. Wright, both former national singles champions and partners of high standing a decade ago in tennis, went into combination again today and vanquished R. D. Little and T. R. Pell, of New York, in the best match of the second round of the annual tournament for the eastern doubles championship at Longwood Cricket club. The scores were 7-5, 6-3, 7-5, 6-1.

The surprise match of the day was that in which Gustav F. Touchard and William N. Washburn eliminated the former Princeton team of G. M. Church and Dean Mathey at 9-7, 6-3, 2-6, 10-8.

HIGHEST PRICED MINOR LEAGUE STAR PLAYED HIS FIRST MAJOR GAME

Larry Chappelle, of the Milwaukee club, brightest star in the American association, has gone to Comiskey's White Sox.

Chappelle cost the Sox $18,000, the biggest price ever paid for a fielder.

Leaving the A. A. with a batting percentage of about .356, Chappelle went into his first major league game under conditions that might shake the nerve of any youngster.

The Sox were playing the Athletics. Chief Bender was pitching.

The Camera brigade photographed the boy's every move.

It was lady's day.

He was made lead-off man, because of his hitting and sprinting ability.

Chappelle didn't get a hit in his first big league game, but he proved every inch a ball player.

The first time up he pickled one of Bender's fast balls, driving it to Rube Oldring in left. Then he caught a sharp curve and sent it to deep center, where Walsh grabbed it after a run. Both attempts were screaming line drives, the slugger's delight.

Twice Bender fanned him, but Bender fans the best of them. And the crafty Indian wanted to "get" this fancy-priced recruit.

In the field Chappelle took one fly and made a peach of a throw into the infield for an assist.

Thompson Will Work in Last

MEMPHIS, Tenn., July 23.—Today's game with the Turtles which will close the series, will be contested between Harrell, of Memphis, and Thompson, of Atlanta, and Smith and Dunn will probably be behind the pan.

Thompson has an unblenished record with the Crackers and he will do his best to keep the string of victories, making it five in a row.

Clear and warm weather prevails.

RUSSELL REPLACES WALSH AS WHITE SOX IRON MAN

Newcomer to Chicago Club Is Now Working Regular and Doing Relief Work

CHICAGO, July 23.—Rebel Russell, the young southpaw of the White Sox, promises to run Walter Johnson, of the Nationals, a close race for the ironman honors of the American league. This honor formerly was held by Ed Walsh, but this year Ed is out of the running, and Russell and Johnson have taken up where the spitball king left off. Walter has a lead on his opponent at present, having worked 193 2-3 innings, while Russell has labored in 175 2-3.

And this young left-hander, who last season was with the Texas league, is a real iron man. He is one of the most willing workers on Callahan's hurling staff, always being ready to go in and save a faltering mate, and this is one of the reasons he has worked so often this year.

To date the white-hosed brigade has taken part in eighty-one contests, and Reb has been mixed up in twenty-eight. So far this campaign he has been sent in to rescue a mate on eleven occasions, while only twice has he been knocked off the hill.

As a major leaguer Russell made his first appearance on April 18, when Callahan's men were battling the Naps. After the game was lost he was sent in to replace Benz. He worked three innings, and in that time allowed only one safe blow, while not a tally came of him.

Russell is just about the best young southpaw who has come to the majors for a good while. He owns a record of 12-8 .600, which is better than the percentage owned by his team. This is very good, considering the fact that he was sent in to rescue a mate in ticklish positions many times.

Right now he is the Ed Walsh of the White Sox hurling staff. Usually when a hurler was going bad, Manager Callahan would send out a C. D. Q. for the great spitter. But the spitter is not the same he was last year and the year before, so, instead, Manager Callahan has been calling on Russell to take up the duty, and he has more than made good in this capacity.

BIRMINGHAM GOES FAST AND HAS GOOD CHANCE

In Past Six Weeks Team Has Climbed From Seventh to Fourth Place, and Looks Good for Strong Finish

The sensation of the Southern league race during the past three weeks has been the remarkably fast climb of the Birmingham club. The team on June 1 appeared hopelessly out of the race, holding to seventh position, while now Gladys Molesworth has his team in fourth place with a grand chance of coming right up near the top and fighting it out for the rag.

Right now the team has a standing of 47 wins and 43 defeats, which is equivalent to a percentage of .522, and on June 8 the standing was 23 wins and 26 defeats, or a percentage of .469. In a little over one month the Barons have gone out and passed Nashville, Memphis and Chattanooga and right now are threatening to outdistance Atlanta and Mobile. And the rise has been made possible by a good class of ball.

In the last nineteen games the Birmingham crew has played eleven have been chalked up as wins, six as defeats and two were tied. This is not half bad and is calculated to get any team right in the race for anybody's old flag. And it is all because the hurlers have started in going at their proper clip and are holding down the scores of the opposing clubs while the batters are piling up their usual large number of tallies.

There is no denying that the Birmingham club is a good organization, and it would not be at all surprising to see the Barons and Crackers fighting it out for the pennant when the last two weeks of play is started. Both have good hard-hitting teams that know a lot of baseball, and all that is needed is fair hurling, and if the both outfits are now getting, with the result that both are in the hunt.

In fighting its way to fourth place the Baron bunch has played Montgomery, Mobile, New Orleans and Memphis, and the fact that the climb against such teams as Mobile and Montgomery has been steady and sure shows that the bunch is playing real classy baseball.

Since July 5 the Barons have played five games with Mobile, winning two, losing two and breaking even in the other. With Montgomery five games have been played and the Barons have won two and lost three. Against New Orleans five games have been played with three wins, two defeats and one tie. Four of the Barons' wins have been of the shutout kind while the opposition has blanked the Molesworth bunch just twice, one of which was a scoreless tie.

GOLF OFF DURING RAIN

Many Important Matches in Western Tournament for the Championship

(By Associated Press.)

CHICAGO, July 23.—A drizzling rain was falling today when the sixteen survivors of the Western Golf championship started on the second round of match play over the Homewood course.

Western Champion Charles Evans, Jr., and Frank Wade, of Rockford, Ill., were the first to get away. They found the going poor. They were followed by E. P. Allis III, of Milwaukee, and J. N. McDonald, of Wheaton, Ill. Allis' freak shot yesterday when he made his first run in one caused the most discussion. There are plenty of records of holes being made in one stroke, but it was the concensus of opinion among the competitors that the feat of the Wisconsin champion was a record for the country, the hole being 306 yards distant. It may be a world's record.

H. Heyburn, of Louisville, and A. C. Perry, of Chicago, were the third pair away.

R. A. Gardner, of Hinesdale, was matched with M. E. Phelps, Chicago; W. K. Wood, of Homewood, with J. Simpson, of Galesburg; Fraser Hale, of Chicago, with C. B. Cory, of Chicago; C. B. Devel, of Chicago, with H. W. Lockett, of Chicago, and E. R. Morrison, of Kansas City, with J. C. Leduc, of Chicago.

The Gardner-Phelps match was expected to be the best attraction today.

Tuesday's Play

(By Associated Press.)

CHICAGO, July 23.—The field in the play for the western golf championship was reduced to sixteen Tuesday, after a series of brilliant matches at eighteen holes on the links of the Homewood Country club. In the second eighteen holes of the qualifying round, played in the morning, Champion Charles Evans, Jr., of the Edgewater club, scored a marvelous 73 for a total of 151, giving him the gold medal. The champion was closely pushed by Mason Phelps, former title holder, who counted 153, and by Warren N. Wood, last year's runner-up, with 152.

E. P. Allis, of Milwaukee, Harvard's champion, made a record of holding the difficult first hole, 290 yards, in one stroke. His feat gave him rank among the visiting players with 157 for the two days' play, but he failed to last through the first match rounds, losing to J. S. Thompson, of St. Paul, in 19 holes.

H. B. Lee, former Michigan champion, handicapped by a boil on his neck, lost to Warren K. Wood, playing on his home course, 6 and 5.

Results of first round of match with qualifying scores include:

Chick Evans, Chicago (151), defeated A. H. Rood, Chicago (165), 7 and 5.

J. S. Thompson, St. Paul (147), defeated E. P. Allis, Milwaukee (157), in 19 holes.

Henry Heyburn, Louisville (168), defeated J. Magee, Omaha (158), 1 up.

R. A. Gardner, Chicago, formerly national champion (162), defeated M. J. Lech, Chicago (163), 6 and 3.

Mason Phelps, Chicago (153), defeated F. S. Armstrong, Los Angeles (166), 3 and 2.

W. K. Wood, Chicago (152), defeated H. B. Lee, Detroit (166), 6 and 5.

Tuesday's Play

(By Associated Press.)

CHICAGO, July 23.—The field in the play for the western golf championship was reduced to sixteen Tuesday, after a series of brilliant matches at eighteen holes on the links of the Homewood Country club. In the second eighteen holes of the qualifying round, played in the morning, Champion Charles Evans, Jr., of the Edgewater club, scored a marvelous 73 for a total of 151, giving him the gold medal. The champion was closely pushed by Mason Phelps, former title holder, who counted 153, and by Warren N. Wood, last year's runner-up, with 152.

E. P. Allis, of Milwaukee, Harvard's champion, made a record of holding the difficult first hole, 290 yards, in one stroke. His feat gave him rank among the visiting players with 157 for the two days' play, but he failed to last through the first match rounds, losing to J. S. Thompson, of St. Paul, in 19 holes.

H. B. Lee, former Michigan champion, handicapped by a boil on his neck, lost to Warren K. Wood, playing on his home course, 6 and 5.

Results of first round of match with qualifying scores include:

Chick Evans, Chicago (151), defeated A. H. Rood, Chicago (165), 7 and 5.

J. S. Thompson, St. Paul (147), defeated E. P. Allis, Milwaukee (157), in 19 holes.

Henry Heyburn, Louisville (168), defeated J. Magee, Omaha (158), 1 up.

R. A. Gardner, Chicago, formerly national champion (162), defeated M. J. Lech, Chicago (163), 6 and 3.

Mason Phelps, Chicago (153), defeated F. S. Armstrong, Los Angeles (166), 3 and 2.

W. K. Wood, Chicago (152), defeated H. B. Lee, Detroit (166), 6 and 5.

HOW CLUBS PLAY TODAY

(By Associated Press.)

MONTGOMERY, Ala., July 23.—Gregory will pitch and Mayer catch for the visitors in the last game of the season to be played by Birmingham in this city this afternoon. C. Brown and Donohue will compose the local battery. The weather is cloudy and cool.

MOBILE, Ala., July 23.—A double-header is scheduled between Mobile and Nashville on Monroe field this afternoon. Berger and Campbell will pitch for Mobile, with Schmidt receiving. Beck and Fleharty will be on the slab for Nashville, with Gibson catching. The first game will be called at 2:15. Weather is threatening.

NEW ORLEANS, July 23.—Although the ball grounds were ankle-deep in mud after yesterday's game, Managers Frank and Elberfeld announce they will attempt a double-header this afternoon, winding up the Chattanooga schedule here for the season. Covaleskie and Kroh are slated to work for the visitors and Walker and Brenton for New Orleans. Street will catch both games for Chattanooga. Adams and Angermeir working for New Orleans. Weather cloudy.

Whiskbroom Favored

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, July 23.—Harry Payne Whitney's Whiskbroom II. winner of the three big spring handicaps, again heads the list for the Saratoga handicap at one mile and a quarter, to be run August 2.

He has been assigned 135 pounds. Rudolfo, the cup horse of the west, is rated second by W. S. Vosburgh in official handicapper, and only ten pounds away. Forty-one horses have been entered.

STARS OF ONE DAY

Yerkes: Had unsuccessful day. He was up four times.

Joe Jackson: Lost his place in the lead of the batters by failing to hit in four trials.

Dode Paskert: Was up five times in Tuesday's double bill and landed safely once.

Erskin Mayer: Way put in the game with the score tied in the fourth inning. He gets credit for a victory.

Bob Byrne: Got one hit in four times up in each of the games of the Pirate-Giant double bill.

Al Demaree got away with the first game in good style, allowing seven hits. He, himself, got one hit in three trials.

Derrill Pratt: Was up three times and hit safely twice.

Zach Wheat: Got three bingles. He was up four times.

Jake Daubert: Got one hit out of four trips to the spotlight.

Red Smith: Still bats like a demon. He was successful in two of his three attempts, one of his hits going for two bags.

Journal Team In Two Games

The weather permitting The Journal team and Kampers will pull off their double header at Ponce de Leon Wednesday afternoon. Both teams are fighting in the Grocers' league. The Journal for the much coveted first place and Kampers to get out of the cellar.

The score below from The Journal team for both games. With the pitchers working right they should have no trouble in putting in both games in the win column. This will put them right in the league leaders or ahead should they drop a game.

The following line-up and batting order will be used by the teams: The Journal, Hull 2b, Manassee ss, Laird 3b, Simmons lf, Turner cf, Carroll lf, Black rf, Callaway or Johnson p; Kampers, Awtry c, Williams p, McSweeny 1b, Daniel 1b, Barber 2b, Miller rf, Oxbiedis cf, Holmes 2b, Taylor lf.

The first game starts at 2:30. The batteries will be changed by both teams for the second game, Simmons will work for the Journal. Other games that are scheduled in the Grocers' League for Wednesday afternoon are, Producers vs. Rogers, at Plaza, Piedmont park, Grant Park Elks v. Jones Company, at northwest diamond, Piedmont park.

CHANGES FOR JUST A DAY

Atlanta and Montgomery won, while Mobile lost on Tuesday. Montgomery increased her lead in first place, while Atlanta climbed within ten points of the gulls in third.

The Giants copped a double bill, Demaree. Frome and Matthewson doing the hurling. It took twelve innings for them to get by with the last game. The Phillies also copped a double bill, pulling away from the Pirates, who were defeated in two by the Giants. The National league race is as scattered now as the American. The Giants lead by eight points, and the Phillies have a hundred point clutch on local second.

The Athletics were defeated Tuesday while the Naps won.

COBB VS. JACKSON

Detroit's hard-hitting outfielder passed Joe Jackson in Tuesday's contest as we believe he would have done long ago had he been able to stay in the game and play ball every day.

For the time that he has been in the game, Cobb has for the last three weeks been pretty well holding his own, while Jackson has been steadily slumping.

Tuesday Ty got one out of three while Jackson could not connect.

Boston Rebuilding

BOSTON, July 23.—The work of strengthening the Boston Americans for the pennant race of 1914 has begun. Two young pitchers have been bought within a few days. Pitcher Radloff, a left-hander, whose purchase from the Manistee club of the Michigan State League, was announced here today. He will report at the close of the Michigan league season.

Thomas Is Loser

BOSTON, Mass., July 23.—Marcel Thomas, welterweight champion of France, was declared defeated by Mike Glover, of South Boston, in the fourth round of a bout here last night. Thomas had the better of the first two rounds, but Glover became aggressive in the third. In the fourth Thomas dropped his hands and walked towards his corner. Referee Sheehan gave the decision of a technical knockout.

BUNTS AND BINGLES

By JULIAN MURPHEY

Funny thing how history repeats itself. The amateur fighter goes into the ring with his hair parted and a nice flowered bathrobe on. When he turns professional and wins a few good fights he appears with his hair in his nostrils and wearing a pair of pants and a sweater over his trunks. When he becomes a champion back he goes to the parted hair and a bathrobe. What's the answer?

PICKS BEST BALL CLUB.

Wherever there is baseball you will find the bugs picking out the various players in the several positions. And everybody from youngster to the old fan has his pick to make and you can just bet they stand by them to the end.

Right now it is Earl D. Adams, a kidlet of Fitzgerald, Ga., who probably does not see many Southern league games each season, who is picking the "best nine." This youngster writes a most interesting letter to the sporting department in which he tells of his preferences for the different selections he makes. He always gives a good reason why one star is picked over another and really his club looks mighty good.

It is evident that young Adams is a baseball bug for fair. Though seeing only a few professional games each season he eats up the newspapers and in this way gets next to the abilities of the several players. He studies box scores, reports of games and every other little incident which would tend to give him a keener insight into the game. After studying out the game young Adams has selected the following club as the team that can be picked from the Southern league:

Agler, 1b.	Smith 3b, Long lf.
Perry, 2b.	Street, c. Welchonce, cf.
Stock, ss.	Gribbens, c.D. Robertson, rf., E. Brown, p.
Messenger, util.	Elberfeld, util. Conzelman, p. Prough, p.

Judging from the frequency with which amateur ball clubs get their pictures taken it is, indeed, a wonder that they have any time left in which to play ball.

ELBERFELD'S LOSS HURT

It was the sudden and unexpected loss of Manager Kid Elberfeld which first put the Chattanooga club on the blink and started it on the downward march. Kid was hit in the head by a pitched ball tossed by Pitcher Breckenridge, of Nashville. Right now some of the Lookouts are beginning to accuse the Vol flinger of purposely hitting Elberfeld and of which is a bit little, uncalled for and undoubtedly untrue.

Just because a pennant contending team meets with such a setback there is no need in laying the blame on some other outfit. Naturally all teams would like to win games, but none will stoop low enough to disable a fellow player. From all reports Breckenridge is a gentleman and above any such charge.

MEMPHIS GOING GREAT.

It would pay Manager Billy Smith to get a dose of the pepper recently injected into the Memphis squad by Bill Bernhard. The past ten days the Turtles have been going in championship form and unless stopped the old race is going to get even hotter than it has been the past weeks past. Before the present spurt the Turtle clan looked like a bunch of dubs. But not now.

THE SPORTLIGHT
BY GRANTLAND RICE

YES, INDEED; QUITE SO.

They whisper no great deeds are left—
That stalwart epochs now are past,
Or that the realm is now bereft
Of thrilling turns in valor cast;
No John L. now is left to fight,
With mighty Jeff a vanished myth—
How dare such treason come to light
Where Flynn is matched with Gunboat Smith!

They weep for Alexander's stuff—
They moan for Caesar's vanished kick;
Where in the mediaeval fluff
Young Charlemagne came through to stick;
They say that fighting days are dead,
That Fitz and Corbett types are in—
How dare such bigotry be spread
Where Gunboat Smith is matched with Flynn!

"Lest we forget," wrote Mr. Kipling. Remembering at the same time on the threshold of the Davis cup final that we thought it was Mr. McLoughlin who was to win in straight sets, not Mr. Wilding.

Remembering, also, that two years ago we thought it was to be Messrs. Larned and McLoughlin who were to win with subtle dispatch, not Messrs. Brookes and Heath.

America, of course, should win, and win easily; but in this sure-thing dope it is often just as well to be set against the recoil in case the germ of an alibi be concealed somewhere in the general layout. It was equally certain in the advance betting that the English polo four were a mop up with the American entry. But the box scores upset the dope as they have before and will again.

ELASTIC ISN'T HALF OF IT.

To show how elastic the grandolddope is, the Giant-Pirate series is branded with the "crucial" trademark at a moment when there is a gap of only 150 points or more between the two clubs.

It is so crucial that the Pirates by winning four straight might slip within eight games of the leaders, or as close as Cleveland is to Philadelphia in the American.

On the other hand, a Piratical failure at the Polo grounds will about close out the N. L. campaign until the eight clubs start south again next spring. The rest of it will be a romp for the exercise involved, important in that it keeps both players and noncombatants "out in the open air."

ANOTHER ELEGY.

Full many a star of purest ray serene
The unknown bush leagues hold upon the job;
Full many a scout is right there on the scene
Ready to wire he's found "another Cobb."

The Athletics so far have scored 440 or 460 something runs. We forget the exact figures, but in any event it was enough.

Mack's team has averaged more runs to its hits than any other club in either league, showing that in addition to knowing how to hit it knows how to use the hits that arrive. It is something more than a club of sluggers. For the answer after all isn't in baseshits but in the number of runs such baseshits get you. Back in 1906 we saw the Cleveland club with eight .300 hitters lose to the White Sox with a team batting average of .221.

Larry Chapelle has a great chance if he doesn't get to believing that he must furnish $18,000 worth of stuff each time he comes to bat. Rube Marquard and Marty O'Toole could furnish him some valuable information on this point if Larry will kindly cable them for the remaining details.

Walter Johnson announces that he will work every other day if the Senators are in the race by September 1. This will only act as a further incentive for American league batsmen to keep the Senators out of the race by September 1. Facing Johnson every fourth is bad enough without doubling the dose.

EMPIRE LEAGUE NOW SURE TO WIND UP THE SEASON

WAYCROSS, Ga., July 23.—There is no longer the slightest doubt of the Empire State league, composed of Waycross, Valdosta, Thomasville, Brunswick, Cordele and Americus, lasting through another and perhaps as many succeeding years as the baseball fans of the cities named want baseball. This means the first most of the cities have gathered for a number of years, will come to an end the latter part of August with a neat record.

While it is not expected that any city in the league is going to show a fat treasury when the last game is played, it is generally known that the financial affairs of the game in the Empire has been cared for better than the most optimistic fan hoped. And this in spite of the almost general disregard of the salary limit by several teams of the league.

The experienced gained this year will result in some radical changes before the Empire opens for business in 1914. One of the changes will be a slightly increased salary limit, with an ironclad agreement to observe the limit. The players of the Empire are today supposed to run on $1,000 a month. Just how many times this limit is exceeded is impossible to state, but mere speculation leads one to believe no team in the league has observed the rule consistently from start to finish this year. Another change that is apt to be made is one of the Class C player limit. Under this league rules only three men who have never had experienced in a Class C league can be carried by one team. It is now thought that at least four men should be carried. An increase of at least one in the player limit will also be urged.

Twelve players are possible as long as none of them are sick or hurt. But with injuries and sicknes no team is able to get along with twelve men. Recent experience has demonstrated this fact beyond any doubt, and it is doubtful if there is a single vote against raising the player limit.

UMPIRE WRANGLE.

The directors also hope to make some better arrangement about umpires. Wrangling about umpires this season has marred many pretty games. Player-umpires have been used almost as often in some cities as league umpires, to the disgust of fans and teams alike.

In arranging the schedule no such scheme as was adopted this year will be permitted. Some teams have played as many as nine games together before another team was played, and hardly any teams play less than six games together, three at one city and three at another.

When the league was organized at Waycross it was known that the first season would be the hardest and that in future the league could exist under more favorable circumstances. As the first season is rapidly drawing to a close, and fans in all cities appear anxious for a continuation of organized baseball, it is safe to predict a long life for the Empire. Already the "baby" league of organized baseball has pulled off some stunts not equalled in bigger leagues and games have been played that would have done credit to much faster company. Attendance in all cities ahs been fine and fans have been loyal even in the face of repeated defeats.

Cupid Wins Pat McDonald, Olympic Champion Shot Thrower

Pat McDonald, the champion sixteen-pound shot thrower, one of the biggest of athletes—for he weighs 329 pounds—has been won by Cupid. He is to be married, "soon," he says, but no more information will he give. When McDonald, who is a traffice policeman of the New York police force, stationed at Forty-second street and Broadway, in the heart of the Tenderloin, stepped out to throw the shot at the Olympic games last year, the Swedes were startled at his bulk. He threw the shot a few inches further than Ralph Rose, of California, another big man, and became the champion.

There have been rumors that the bride was an actress who had been guided through the rapid and congested traffic at Forty-second street every night by the big policeman, for he helps scores of them over Broadway every evening. But Pat will say nothing about that.

REAL CHAMPIONS SCARCE; RITCHIE WILLING TO BOX

NEW YORK, July 23.—That Willie Ritchie has shown himself to be a champion worthy of the name will be a good thing for boxing in general. Of late, in some quarters, it has been thought the proper thing to sneer at all present-day glove wielders.

The paragraphers, who, in their efforts to show their wit, are careless of exact facts, have been neglecting no opportunity to hold them up to ridicule. Even those who try to be fair and just have been forced to admit that the supply of real champions is limited. All this adverse comment has hurt boxing. If Ritchie proves to be as willing as he is capable, he can do much to refute the sceptics and revive interest in the game.

There was much doubt before the Ritchie-Rivers bout as to the fitness of the champion for the position he holds. At that he figured to beat the Mexican, who had often shown himself to lack the determination and courage necessary in a highclass ring man.

Rivers ran true to form. In many respects his work was a duplicate of that in his last bout with Leach Cross in this city. In that affair Rivers began well. He tore in with straight lefts that seldom missed. He took a big lead, and it looked a certainty that he would win. But Cross, who had been trying in vain to land his noted right, suddenly changed his tactics. He began to lead with his left. The blows were not very hard, but at once there was a change in the Mexican's work. He still dived in without cessation, but with this notable difference: it was merely for the purpose of obtaining the protection of the ensuing clinch. His nerve had gone. To project himself was his main thought. Although he was winning so easily during the first half of the bout, he was outgamed in the second.

FIGHT LEFT RIVERS.

Pretty much the same thing happened in California. Rivers did well as long as he was in front, but the moment he was stung all the fight left him. But for this failing there might still be hope for him, but the probabilities are he will never be so prominent again.

With Rivers out of the way, Leach Cross is now the foremost contender, according to Los Angeles fans, who thought decidedly otherwise before the New Yorker met Anderson. Cross always did have many followers in the east who believed him to be of championship caliber, and if Ritchie decides to meet him the sporting world will pay strict attention to the match.

Those who are acquainted with the New Yorker's strong and weak points will hardly give Cross more than a fair chance of winning. Against a polished boxer Cross fails to make much headway, although he is bad medicine for a rushing slugger. Still, Cross is a hard man to figure. He usually does the unexpected. In any case he and Ritchie would be able to furnish a sensational battle.

Argentina Riflemen Ready for Tourney

NEW YORK, July 23.—Argentine Republic's riflemen who will compete in the international shooting matches at Camp Perry, Ohio, the last week in August, arrived here last night on board the steamer Vasari. The team of fifteen men, headed by Captain Juan Gallegoh, will leave today for Camp Perry, where elimination matches among themselves will be held to select five men to represent their country in the tropuy matches.

AGGRESSIVE MANAGERS LEAD IN FIGHT FOR THE PENNANT

The fighting game is having a large inning this year. And the fighting manager is the propelling force. There was a time, not so very long ago either, when a majority of fans were inclined to regard the cool, sedate, so-called brainy manager as the best bet in baseball circles. But that sort of a leader isn't in style much this season.

The four hundred are wearing fighting togs just now and you don't have to go to the big leagues to get proof of it, either.

Of course there are exceptions but all rules have them or else they are not rules. But there are no exceptions in the Southern at present. Look at the standing and you will observe that Mobile, Montgomery, Atlanta and Chattanooga are teams in the first division and you'd have to go a long ways to find four scrappier guys than Mike Finn, Johnny Dobbs, Billy Smith and Kid Elberfeld, who are the respective leaders of these first divisioners.

All but one of these pilots in the select set just now anyway, are playing managers; that is they wear uniforms and get out on the coach lines and are in the thickest of the fray all the time and fight for every inch of ground, so to speak. They keep after the opposing side like a pack of wolves keep after a Siberian gentleman out sleigh riding across the steppes, and they look after their players closer than a ward heeler looks after his henchmen.

They are on the job about 24 hours of the day and are not only managers, but guardians, counsellers and general all around bosses for their men. They rule with an iron hand and their word is law. When there is any bawling to be done they do it and they instill in their players that good old fighting spirit, that never give up idea and they have taught them to refuse to confess by word or action the superiority of any other team.

Mike Finn isn't appearing in uniform these days, but the fact that he wears store clothes hasn't in the least interfered any with his power of speech. He's the ruling and guiding spirit of the Mobile bunch, and up until the time Charles Starr was taken ill, he had a most able lieutenant on the field. But Finn was boss on the bench, an absolute monarch almost, and his word has always been and still is the last murmur.

Taking up the other end of the Southern league standing one finds at least one rather agressive pilot in the person of Carlton Molesworth, who pilots the Birmingham crew. Moley is a spirited party, all right, and doesn't hesitate about showing himself in the field in his natty but tight fitting unie whenever there is anything doing of a special nature but as a fighting manager, compared to Dobbs, Elberfeld, Smith or Finn, he is not there.

Following Nashville in the standing is Memphis. Bernhard is of the sedate set. One might allude to him as being dignified. The times he has appeared on the field to argue for his side this year could be counted on the fingers of one hand. Bernhard, so it is understood, goes on the supposition that his men know the game and know how to play it. He does all his bossing from the bench and he never quits following the game to get out on the coaching lines to encourage or direct them.

There is no gainsaying that Bill knows the game. You could hunt through several leagues and you couldn't find a manager more popular with his men. He's there with the encouragement and the advice and he believes that as a rule he can accomplish more with kind words than he can with a constant "bawling out" system.

His plan may be all to the merry and that the Turtles are down in the rut may be due entirely to the fact that he hasn't been able to snag the right kind of men to make the team a contender. But nevertheless Finn, Dobbs, Smith and Elberfeld are in the first division.

On can't figure Charles Frank in this list, for Frank is believed to be going under wraps this year so far as his managerial ability is concerned. As a rule, Frank gets the very best possible out of his men. He's as friendly and as sociable with his players as a bear with a sore foot and he'd rather pan a player for a bad play than eat. This year, though, he's quite tame and docile. He can't get the men he wants and he gives the impression of a fighter who is merely hanging onto the ropes waiting for the gong.—Memphis Commercial-Appeal.

JOURNAL WANT AD Horoscope

JULY 24

A woman born on this date should be extremely cautious in selecting a life companion. She should marry a man whose birthdate falls between November 21 and December 22, or between March 21 and April 19, in order to be most happy in marriage.

The governing sign of this birthdate is Leo, and children born under this sign are extremely sensitive and passionate. These children should always be occupied and never left with much idle time. They need a firm, loving guidance, and may be developed into the strongest and highest natures.

Many famous poets, artists and musicians have been born under this sign of Leo, which governs all birthdates between July 21 and August 23.

Lost articles will be returned through The Journal Want Ads for the coming two weeks. Planetary conditions show that all domestics, farm hands, drivers, salesmen are under favorable vibrations, and they may use The Journal Want Ads to great advantage.

POULTRY, PIGEONS AND LIVE STOCK

The Price of Thoroughbred Poultry

THE time may come when things will change, but it is doubtful. However, big changes have been made in many sections of the world and in localities where people know the value of a good bird it is no trouble to get it from $3 up for a good thoroughbred breeding bird, but in this section it is quite different. However, if people who buy thoroughbred chickens now, especially through correspondence, should not wish or expect a $10 to $25 bird for $1.50 to $3, as a great many of them do, and would have you believe when they write you for prices on your best stock. If you only desire birds for home use and good ordinary breeders they can be had in lots of ten or more usually at $2 to $5 each, but when you are paying this price you should not expect birds in the pink of condition as it is impossible to get such at this price. In writing breeders for prices on stock be plain with them and tell them something about what kind of birds you wish, what they are wanted for and about the amount of money you have to invest in them, and 90 per cent of the breeders can then write and fully describe in an intelligent way just such birds as will conform to the amount of money that you wish to invest, and in nine cases out of ten the average breeder, especially one who has a reputation to sustain, will always give you full value received for any price you entrust to him. Of course inexperienced breeders who have no reputation at stake and are not posted do not know about these maters and with this class of breeders it is little different. But, the average established breeder will give you full value received and treat you right if you will be plain and tell him just what is wanted in the first beginning, and it will save considerable correspondence and often *secure for you birds that would probably be sold before an answer and re*ply could be had.

There is yet a lot to be learned about the poultry and live stock business in many of these details, and all the information that can possibly be had is helping to educate and enlighten the southern farmer on these subjects. The poultry industry is a by-product of the average farm and is receiving more attention now than ever, and with the continued good work that has been done for the past few years through the papers and the press generally the poultry industry alongside of other varied industries of the south are the things that are helping our section of the country come into its own, but the buyers and sellers will yet have a lot to learn and must get closer together on many of these subjects. In your correspondence, and especially in placing orders, always put yourself in the position of the other fellow and by doing unto others as you would like to be treated yourself you will usually get value received and get the worth of your money. I find that during my many years of business in this poultry work I have a large number of customers who have been buying from me for many years, and as a rule most of these customers every season send me the same amount of money and ask me to send them the best I can for this amount, either in fowls or eggs as the case may be, and usually this is the best way for a buyer to get his start. The seller as a rule usually takes an interest in his customers and will try to select something not only well worth the money, but the thing that will be best suited to the needs of *the new beginner's wants, and in this way a lot of unnecessary correspon*dence can be saved and you usually get by far nearer the worth of your money and get something that will start you right by placing this confidence in the breeder that you are dealing with. The same thing applies to seed especially, and this is one thing the farmers are paying more attention to nowadays. They are fast learning that it pays to buy the very best quality of seed from reliable dealers and not consider the price at all as it is a secondary consideration when it comes to the final yield at the end of the year. Good seed, good poultry and good live stock are things that our country must have to show us the per cent of profit that we are entitled to.

Yours very truly,

G. W. FRANCIS.

Ask Your Dealer for Aunt Patsy Poultry Feed, the Egg Producer.

HOW TO SECURE EGGS
In the
LATE SUMMER AND EARLY FALL MONTHS

IF YOU want eggs in the latter part of the summer and the early fall, you must feed your hens on a thoroughly balanced ration, in the shape of a dry mash. We claim Aunt Patsy's Poultry Feed to be the best dry mash on the market, from the fact that it is composed of the highest grade of raw material that can be secured. There is no filler or adulterated cheap stuff used in it at all, but it contains every ingredient of which the egg itself is composed. Hence, if you will think a moment, you will agree with me that if you put into the hen's craw the ingredients of which the egg is made, you will have a right to expect her digestive organs to convert these ingredients into the egg and to obtain from your hens a greater yield of eggs than if fed otherwise.

Ask any successful poultryman what he thinks of Aunt Patsy, and give us a trial order.

IN THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

Sale of West Peachtree Parcel Goes to Record—Merritts Avenue Renting Parcel Changes Hands—Delegates Leave for Winnipeg Convention on Thursday—Work Progressing on Produce Building—Comparison of Realty Transfers

A warranty deed has gone to record conveying from the Williams-Hartsock company to Mrs. Emma T. Brown a parcel on West Peachtree street. The consideration was not named, but the company acquired the property early in the year for $28,000.

As is on the west side of West Peachtree street beginning 218 feet south of Third street. The lot is 55x195.

MERRITTS AVENUE SALE.

M. C. Kiser's agency has sold for H. O. Reese to Mrs. W. M. Elrod Nos. 205, 207 and 209 Merritts avenue, renting property, for $5,500.

This property consists of a lot 83x165, with three houses bringing a monthly rental of $58.60.

OFF TO WINNIPEG.

Atlanta and southern delegates will leave here Thursday for the annual convention of the National Association of Real Estate Exchanges at Winnipeg, Manitoba.

Among local delegates will be Harris G. White, president of the Atlanta Real Estate board; Charles P. Glover, former president; John D. Muldrew and others. A dozen or so delegates will attend from the southeastern territory.

This convention will witness an assemblage of delegates from every state of the union as well as the provinces of Canada. The convention, including the passage, will take about sixteen days, which will include side trips through the agricultural country of northwest Canada.

An effort will be made by the local delegates to land the next national convention in Atlanta. Alderman I. N. Ragsdale, who is an honorary member of the local board, will present Mayor Woodward's formal invitation to President White, who will in turn present it to the convention.

The invitation will be for the 1916 convention, and it would bring the country's first boosters to Atlanta.

WORK ON PRODUCE ROW.

Work on Produce row, which the Broad street commission houses will occupy, is progressing well. An alteration under another head shows the stage of the building.

This building will be over 400 feet long and will cost $205,000. It will be of concrete construction, and will afford quarters for sixteen concerns.

Beginning on Central avenue north of Hunter street, it will extend east to the Washington street viaduct.

The migration of all these concerns will have the effect of stimulating retail business also in that immediate vicinity, the result being that Broad street south of Marietta street becoming more and more a retail thoroughfare.

REALTY TRANSFERS.

Several small transactions are included in Wednesday's Fulton county transfers, and several are also shown in the DeKalb county record.

Agents for some time past have noticed an unusual volume of warranty deeds. This condition is explained by the fact that a good many buyers who bought on terms are paying their deferred notes in advance.

There are also more cash transactions represented than the average person would imagine. This condition applies particularly to certain classes of investment property.

Actual records continue to show as they have for several months past that there have been more loans paid off this year than last.

BUILDING COMPARISONS.

Building operations will hardly equal the brilliant showing of last year, although they will show well up to the average.

Two such abnormal years as 1912 could hardly come in succession. A few years ago it will be remembered, there was a large value of building established. Following that there were two years or so of average activity which were followed by the brilliant, record-breaking showing of 1912.

FARMER IS SHOT DEAD IN ROW OVER A GIRL

Bob Moon Puts Bullet Through Heart of Joe Hallstead, Near Dothan, Ala.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

DOTHAN, Ala., July 23.—Joe Hallstead, a well-known young farmer about twenty-three years old, was shot and instantly killed last night about 9 o'clock by Bob Moon. Moon has been arrested, and is now in jail here.

The tragedy occurred at Memphis church, about six miles south of Dothan. Moon had attended services at the church accompanied by a young lady friend. Moon and his companion went to the church in a buggy. After services it is said that Jasper Hallstead, a young man about eighteen years old, tried to induce Moon's companion to leave Moon and go home with him in his automobile. A difficulty ensued. Hallstead died instantly. He leaves a wife and one child. Moon is about twenty years old and single. He surrendered to Sheriff Hay.

MULHALL TRIED TO MEET TAMMANY HALL LEADER

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, July 23.—Martin M. Mulhall told the senate lobby committee today that in November, 1909, he tried to meet Charles F. Murphy, leader of Tammany hall, in behalf of the candidacy of George Gordon Battle for governor of New York. Mulhall wrote Battle that there were seventy-two organizations of manufacturers in New York state, "a controlling influence in the great fight for governor."

"I am anxious to meet Mr. Murphy and other leaders of our party to demonstrate to them that the business men of New York would have given you better support in the last fight if they had had more time to know you better and that there are hundreds of manufacturers throughout the state of New York who believe that you would be a splendid candidate for governor," he wrote.

"With your permission I shall open up correspondence with a great number of secretaries of these organizations this winter and would be greatly pleased if I could keep in touch with you by letter or otherwise. I would feel myself honored if I was counted among your hustling political friends."

Owes Her Life to Eckman's Alterative

Eckman's Alterative is being used with success in the treatment of Tuberculosis in all parts of the country. Persons who have taken it, improved, gained weight, exausting night sweats stopped, fever diminished, and many recovered. If you are interested to know more about it, we will put you in touch with some who are now well. You can investigate and judge for yourself. Read of Mrs. Govert's recovery:

Griffith, Ind.

"Gentlemen: About September 30, 1908, my mother-in-law was taken sick with Catarrhal Pneumonia, which developed into Lung Trouble. In January, when Rev. Wm. Berg, of St. Michael's Church, at Schererville, Ind., prepared for her death, he recommended that I get Eckman's Alterative, and see if it would not give her some relief. The neighboring physician declared she had Consumption and was beyond all medical aid. So I immediately had Rev. Wm. Berg to send for a bottle. Practically without hope for recovery, I insisted that she try the Alterative, which she did. I am glad to say that she soon began to improve. Now, she works as hard as ever, weighs twenty pounds heavier than she ever did before she took sick, and is in good health.

(Affidavit) JOS. GRIMMER.

Eckman's Alterative has been proven by many years' test to be most efficacious in cases of severe Throat and Lung Affections, Bronchitis, Bronchial Asthma, Stubborn Colds and in upbuilding the system. Does not contain narcotics, poisons or habit-forming drugs. For sale by Jacobs' Pharmacy and other leading druggists. Write the Eckman Laboratory, Philadelphia, Pa., for booklet telling of recoveries and additional evidence.—(Advt.)

Why is the soda cracker today such a universal food?

People ate soda crackers in the old days, it is true—but they bought them from a barrel or box and took them home in a paper bag, their crispness and flavor all gone.

Uneeda Biscuit—soda crackers better than any ever made before—made in the greatest bakeries in the world—baked to perfection—packed to perfection—kept to perfection until you take them, oven-fresh and crisp, from their protecting package. Five cents.

JOINT SUFFRAGE DEBATES THROUGHOUT THE STATE

Meeting Tuesday Night in Taft Hall Was First of Extended Series

Joint debates on woman's suffrage are to be held all over Georgia under the auspices of the Georgia Woman's Suffrage association, according to Mrs. Mary L. McLendon, president of that association.

The open discussion of the topic Tuesday night in Taft hall, upon a program directed by Habersham chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, was the forerunner of a series of similar debates to be held throughout the state. The Georgia association's plan was announced by Mrs. McLendon at that meeting.

A large audience attended, the ticket sale increasing substantially the fund of Habersham chapter. Several entertaining speeches were heard, but there was a dearth of argument against woman suffrage. Just one speaker, Dr. Noel Neal, a member of the state legislature, took that side of the discussion, and he announced before he finished that he took little stock in some of the arguments he had cited. Because there was so little opposition, Miss Woman suffrage rallies, several of the speakers who might otherwise have championed it were not heard.

The final contest of the evening was not between suffrage and anti-suffrage, but between the two rival suffrage organizations in Atlanta, for new members. Application blanks, membership thanks and badges were distributed for the Women's suffrage league, formerly the Atlanta Civic league, and for the Atlanta Equal suffrage league, auxiliary of the state association. Mrs. Frances Whitside, champion of the former, being one of the speakers and urging from the platform that her leagues join their efforts with those of her league. Mrs. S. E. Cunningham, another of the speakers, championed the latter and invited the enrollment of new and active members.

The meeting began at 8 o'clock. Mrs. W. L. Peel presiding. Dr. Percy L. Starnes, the city organist, rendered several selections on the organ. Mrs. Peel's opening address was received with much interest. Among the other speakers not named already were Dr. John E. White, pastor of the Second Baptist church; Mrs. Mary De McLaren, president of the state association; Recorder Nash R. Broyles, Dr. A. M. Hudgins, pastor of St. Marks' Methodist church, and Leonard J. Grossman, legal adviser of the state association.

FARMERS OF WHITFIELD APPRECIATE FARM SCHOOL

Upward of 200 Attend and Manifest Genuine Interest

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

DALTON, Ga., July 23.—For the first time on record here, the farmers of Whitfield county showed genuine appreciation of a farm school conducted by experts from the State Agricultural college, Tuesday. The attendance was upwards of 200, and interest was manifested in the meeting from the time it opened until its close.

At the close of the meeting, officers for the county organization were elected as follows: D. Puryear, president; C. L. Foster, secretary.

At the institute, Prof. W. A. Worsham interestingly discussed "The Most Methods of Increasing the Productiveness of Soils;" Prof. J. L. Bishop discussed "The Cow as a Source of Profit on the Farm;" G. E. Hunnicutt, editor of Southern Cultivator, talked on "The Price We Must Pay to Get Good Farmers;" J. K. Giles discussed "The Results of Farm Demonstration Work," and Dr. Hook talked of the work of tick eradication in Whitfield county.

The farmers have taken hold of the work with interest, and much good is expected to result.

PIEDMONT LAKE WILL NOT BE CLOSED UP

Contrary to report, Piedmont lake will not be closed while the city's supply of water is scarce, for several days, in order to save water to the city, the supply coming into the lake was cut off on Saturday night, but this plan proved to be inadvisable, and the full supply of water was again turned into the lake.

It will be open as usual to the public during the summer.

FIRE'S DEATH LIST CONTINUES TO GROW AS RUINS ARE RAKED

were in the city for their annual tournament, added the local firemen. In holiday clothes, they assisted in running lines of hose to the tops of buildings that were threatened.

A band concert scheduled for last night was abandoned.

Reed B. Freeman, president of the Binghamton Clothing company, estimated there were 120 employees in the building when the fire started. Eighty per cent of the girls employed were Americans.

WOULDN'T OBEY DRILL.

"It's not the money loss nor the business that overcomes me," he said today, "but it is the thought of those girls, some of whom have been with us for years.

"They perished because they believed the alarm was for a fire drill, several of which had been held recently. They dislike the drills, which forced them to appear in the streets in their rough working clothes. The drills were a bother. So, when the alarm sounded, most of them took their time—some to don their coats, others to get their purses and other belongings.

"But for this fact I believe nearly all would have been saved. In the last fire drill we had the entire building was emptied in twenty seconds."

According to officials of the Binghamton Clothing company, all the fire laws had been observed. Fire drills had been held in regular intervals and the regulation that all flint swept from the floors at least once a day had been heeded. It is the theory of President Freeman that a lighted cigarette thrown into a heap of rubbish shortly after the lunch hour was the cause of the disaster.

WITHERED FROM HEAT.

Fire Chief Hogg, as he left the ruins this morning, declared that in his opinion the fire escape was adequate. "They simply withered from the heat when they got to it," he said.

The building was a four-story brick structure 44 feet wide by 139 feet long, and was built eighteen years ago as a cigar factory. The fire escape was at the rear.

There were two stairways from the top floor, one to Center street at the rear and the other to Wall street at the front. The interior of the building was of wood, the office and stock room were on the first floor and most of the operatives were working on the third and fourth floors.

The fire started in the center of the first floor near the stairway. The doors and windows were open at the time and created a draft which contributed to the rapid spread of the flames.

A fund for the survivors has been started.

FIGHT EXPECTED OVER EFFORT TO DEFER FRANK CASE

"mose gone an' I ain't had no watermelon yet, the solicitor gave the jailers the price of a "Georgia rattlesnake" with the request that one be purchased and turned to the negro for his exclusive delectation.

Find of Death Stick Was Not Reported to Police

"The reported find of any club or bludgeon with which Mary Phagan is supposed to have been killed was not reported to this headquarters by any credible authority," said Chief of Detectives Lanford Wednesday morning anent the find of such a weapon weeks ago at the National Pencil factory. "And if the Pinkerton detectives found it, they concealed the find from us and violated the pact between them and the city detectives."

Chief Lanford characterized as "absurd" the theory that the club was used in the murder of Mary Phagan by Jim Conley, the negro sweeper at the factory, or by any one else.

"As it is described to me," said he, "the stick is not heavy enough to have formed a deadly weapon in the hands of anybody, even if it had been found under circumstances indicating its connection with the case.

"I doubt exceedingly that it has that connection. It is said to have been found on May 19. The very spot where the report says it was found had been gone over by members of the detective force very thoroughly. Boxes had been cleared away and every detail examined. They saw no bludgeon or anything like a bludgeon there immediately after the murder. I am skeptical of a find said to have been made there fourteen days after the murder was committed."

Chief Lanford said that he heard rumors of a club having been found at a time when thousands of other rumors were in circulation, but he heard no authority for the rumor, and did not attach sufficient importance to it to ask the Pinkertons about it, assuming that they would report any material development as readily as they were supposed to do.

Miss Lillian Russell Writes

The best homes in England have for years used an article from a recipe called Waw-Waw. This was prepared by a young English singer who had suffered with indigestion for years, by the suggestion of a noted French doctor, and $20,000 was offered to any one who could analyze the Waw-Waw correctly. Waw-Waw (an absolute South American Indian word for vegetable) contains no raw spices, and is absolutely pure. It is a sauce unlike all others, and when added to the cooking or with soups, salads, hot and cold meats and fish it gives a flavor unequaled, and at the same time helps how easily your food is digested. Miss Lillian Russell, the beautiful actress writes: "Waw-Waw is delicious. Added to soups, salads, meats and fish it is unequalled."
